IN THE BEE TO-DAY

WEATHER.

The cold wave flag is up and a blizzard is sweeping over the country. It will reach here to-night and the temperature is expected to drop to 8 degrees above zero by to-morrow morning.

Forecast for Wisconsin—Local snows; followed by fair weather; fair on Sunday; westerly winds; colder Sunday morning.

For Michigan—Light snows; westerly winds and colder.

For Indiana and Illinois—Fair Sunday; westerly winds; colder Sunday morning.

For western New York and Ohio—Showers to-day; colder, fair Sunday, with a cold wave; westerly winds.

Observer Hagen says: A cold wave is advancing from Minnedosa and will probably reach 8 degrees above to-morrow night here. The temperature is 24 degrees below zero at Winnipeg and 24 degrees below in Minnedosa. A storm is now developing in the Canadian northwest which will prevent our getting a below zero temperature out of this cold wave, but Sunday night is likely to be the coldest night of the season. The highest temperature in the United States is at New Orleans where it is 50 degrees. The lowest is at St. Vincent, Minn., where it is 24 below zero. The highest here yesterday was 53 degrees, while the lowest at 8 a. m. to-day was 28 degrees above. The cold wave is likely to last until Tuesday.

FOUND A HUMAN SKELETON.

Oak Harbor, O., Dec. 26.—(Special)—A human skeleton has been found in the marsh which lies in Carroll township, this county. The recent fires burned large areas of marsh, and in one of these burned spots the skeleton was found.

Nothing but the skull and larger bones remain. Two clay pipes and a fragment of a rubber boot was found near by.

Later.—The skeleton found in the marsh is supposed to be that of Joseph Hoetsteine, a fisherman. Rumor has so far crystalized into the fact that some ten years ago a fisherman of that name disappeared mysteriously. At the time he was known to have $800 on his person. Foul play is suspicioned.

AN INGENIOUS DEVICE.

An ingenious device has been invented by Major Law, the commercial attache of the British embassy, at St. Petersburg, which consists of an electric typewriting machine to be employed in working an electric type-setting machine at long distance over a single wire. It is suggested that the dailies of large cities might have all the special reports put in type by the correspondents themselves.

ONLY A PHOTOGRAPH

Of a Beautiful Woman Found in His Pocket.

Suicide of a Well-Dressed Young Man in a Cincinnati Gun Store This Morning.

Cincinnati, Dec. 26.—About half past eight o'clock this morning a handsome young man wearing a silk hat and dressed in the latest style entered Bode's hardware store, on Main street, and purchased a 38-calibre revolver.

He requested the clerk to load it, which was done, and returned to the purchaser.

The visitor then deliberately pointed it toward his right temple and pulled the trigger.

He pitched forward and fell dead at the feet of the horrified clerk.

No letters or any other means of identification were found on him. A photograph of a woman of wonderful beauty was found in one of his pockets. It was taken by "Ciarlo, Newport, Ky."

The body was removed to the morgue.

Later—The suicide has been identified as Robert Moore, aged 24, son of a wealthy contractor who lives in the suburbs of Fairmount. No cause has been assigned for the rash act.

LU YI SUNG'S BAND

Badly Routed By Imperial Soldiers.

China in a Most Choatic State.

Rebels and Brigands Rule the Day.

The Celestials Empire Torn by Dissensions.

Repeated Scenes of Bloodshed and Lawlessness That Must in Time Result in Open War Among the Heathen Chinese.

Shanghai, Dec. 26.—Another furious battle has been fought between the imperial troops and the remnant of the band formerly led by Lu Yi Sung, who was beheaded three weeks ago.

The band have been continuing their outrages against life and property and have increased to nearly 2,000 in number. On Sunday last they made such a hostile demonstration in the province of Shih Tsung, that the viceroy dispatched a body of 400 soldiers under the command of a brigadier general to disperse them.

This small force was closely hemmed in, and had not reinforcements hastened to them, they would have been exterminated. With these reinforcements they numbered about 900 and succeeded in driving the insurgents from their position, and then took up a strong stand a few miles beyond.

Thursday the imperial force came up with the band at Nalao, which was the scene of the previous battle, when their leader was captured. The fighting was desperate, but the imperial troops were handled with skill and the entire band was dispersed, the great majority being killed. Of those who escaped a large number were made prisoners and will probably be decapitated, and a few succeeded in getting across the border and away.

While this does not relieve one of the principal bodies of the insurgents, it disperses a band that was very troublesome.

Advices from China received to-day say that the town of Binh Thuong was attacked on November 15 by armed brigands, who killed three of the very small number of native soldiers stationed at that place and succeeded in getting away with a quantity of rifles and some ammunition.

The entire raid, murder and retreat was over inside of a quarter of an hour. After this the same band, disguising themselves as Annamites, and apparently with friendly and peaceable intentions, entered another town near by, and, suddenly drawing their swords from beneath their cloaks, killed the sentinels, secured another quantity of rifles and arms generally and escaped.

From Foo Chow information is received that the villagers who opposed the salt tax have been reinforced and now number 15,000 fighting men. They have become thoroughly organized and have taken the name of the Chin Chien Hui, which means "Golden Cash" society, and they have several Kolao Hweis as leaders. They are armed with repeating rifles and are led and officered by 50 Frenchmen. They have already sacked the town of Tshwei and are now besieging Yen Chi Hsiem, which is four days' march from Foo Chow.

It is thought likely that this new band of rebels will not march on Foo Chow, but will join the Kolao Hwei on the Yang-Tse-Kiang. Those who have seen the insurrectionists say they are well organized, and the fact that they have defeated the imperial troops upon two occasions seems to verify this statement.

So thoroughly is the government alarmed over the turbulent condition of affairs that the Viceroy at Nanking has submitted to the Throne a long list of the different camps, forts and garrisons in and near Nanking, also near the Treaty ports within his jurisdiction, which are Shanghai, Chinklang and Kiuking.

The Viceroy, in making these suggestions, states that the changes he has already brought about, and those he recommends, he regards as an imperative necessity as a safeguard to the public peace and good order in these important places, and he adds that he requires trustworthy and loyal officers in charge of his troops.

The country north of Kirin is generally in a disturbed condition, but it never has been so entirely wrought up as it is just at this season, for its normal state of alarm is increased by well-armed banditti raiding the towns and murdering every week.

As if these infernal dissensions were not sufficient, China has mixed herself up with Corea in assuming an unfriendly attitude towards Japan. Japan is one of the most important nations holding relations with Corea. Out of the net value of the foreign trade of this latter country for 190, amounting to eight and a quarter millions of yen, Japan had six and a half millions, while China had but one and three-quarter millions. In point also of foreign residence the Japanese outnumber the Chinese three to one. Naturally this has aroused some feeling between the two nations, but until the middle of November no open rupture was threatened.

The Japanese commercial transactions in Corea have been very largely in the form of advancing money to the farmers on their standing crops, generally of beans and taking the delivery of the harvest later. In this way the Japanese always had a large amount of money at risk in Corea.

This year has been the same as formerly, and to the surprise and anger of the Japanese the Governor of the Province of Corea a few weeks ago issued a proclamation forbidding the export of beans from the country, ignoring the claims of Japan, and leaving that country a loser to the extent of $200,000. The Japanese attribute this act to Chinese influence.

BLOODY BATTLE REPORTED.

Has Garza Attacked the U. S. Soldiers?

Dispatches State That an Engagement Has Taken Place and That a Number Have Been Killed.

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 26.—A startling report reached here yesterday from Ft. McIntosh that Capt. Francis Hardie, of the Third cavalry, and his detachment of 50 men, met an armed force of Garza's followers near Carriso, Tex., yesterday, and that in the engagement that ensued 14 of the United States soldiers were killed.

No official confirmation of the report has been received at the department headquarters here.

CRASH OF FREIGHTS.

A Misunderstanding in Orders Resulted Fatally.

Newark, O., Dec. 26.—Second section of E. & O. freight, No 95, ran into the first section near Plymouth, north of here, causing a frightful wreck, the death of one brakeman, and fatal injuries to a fireman.

The accident was occasioned by a misunderstanding. Both trains had orders to go to Chicago Junction for No. 8, fast line. Conductor Dowd got left at Plymouth, and the brakeman, W. H. Cullison, of this city, signaled down brakes. The second section crashed into the first, fatally injuring Freman S. S. Switzer and damaging the front of the engine.

Engineer Thomas Armstrong jumped and saved his life. Several cars of the front freight were demolished. Oil tanks in the middle of the train caught fire and burned.

Brakeman Cullison was caught in these and perished in the flames. Almost the whole train was consumed. The charred remains of the brakeman were found today. Fireman Switzer will die. The loss will reach $10,000. The track was blocked five hours.

GREAT DAY FOR THE WELSH.

Racine, Wis., Dec. 26.—Yesterday was a gala day for the Welsh people of the northwest, the occasion being the Eisteddfod, preparations for which had been in progress several months.

Special trains arrived from various cities at intervals all morning and it is estimated that 2,000 strangers are taking part in the exercises. The festival of poetry and song was opened at ten o'clock by Mr. Gittings, of this city, the chairman of the committee.

SAWTELLE IS DEAD.

Clerk Laidlow Will Sue Russell Sage.

A Peculiar Suit for Large Damages Growing Out of the Bomb Explosion a Few Weeks Ago.

New York, Dec. 26.—W. R. Laidlow, a broker's clerk, who was injured at the explosion of the bomb at Russell Sage's office, said to a reporter at St. Vincent's hospital that he intended to bring suit against Mr. Sage's for $100,000 damages.

He proposed to do this, he said, on the advice of friends, who told him that he had a very good case against the millionaire.

"I will base my claim for damages," said Mr. Laidlow, "upon Mr. Sage's deliberate use of me as a shield between himself and the dynamiter.

"I came in just after Mr. Sage had read the threatening letter which had been handed to him, and he stepped in front of me so that my body protected him from his visitor. He caught my left hand in his so that I could not get away.

"Mr. Sage knew from the letter that he had just read that some effort would be made to injure him by his visitor, while I was absolutely ignorant of what was about to transpire."

It will be a long time before Mr. Laidlow can get out again, and it may that his injuries will leave him permanently disabled.

DIVORCE GRANTED.

Sioux Falls, Dec. 26.—A hearing was granted by Judge Aikens Thursday night to Mrs. Flora L. Dye, of Salamanca, N. Y., one of the colonists, in her application for a divorce from her husband, George E. Dye, for drunkenness and cruelty. Mrs. Dye was anxious to be home for New Years, and she departed last night with a decree as a Christmas gift.

AFTER THE LIQUOR DEALERS

A Bitter War Being Waged at Steubenville.

The Crusade Against Clubs Continues —The Dow Tax Must Be Paid —Action Taken.

Steubenville, O., Dec. 26.—During the the last term of court the grand jury found indictments against the barteuders in three or four clubs started in this city during the summer for the purpose of evading the Sunday closing ordinances.

Two of them were convicted as indicted, and when they went to jail to serve out their sentences the matter was supposed to drop. Thursday, however, the county treasurer brought suit against the owner of the property in which the club rooms were located asking that the judgment be had in each case for $250 and the amount placed as a lien against the property.

The county auditor by the advice of the prosecuting attorney placed the amount upon the tax duplicate and this suit is to enforce its collection.

In the same manner the treasurer has brought suit for the same amount against two beer agents who had beer depots in Mingo Junction and had only paid the Dow tax upon the agency in this city.

The suits have created a stir among liquor men, who claim that they will test the validity of the treasurer's action. This, however, is regarded as a bluff, as the Dow law has been tested by the supreme court repeatedly and declared to be sound.

BLOWN INTO ATOMS.

Disastrous Explosion Reported at Pittsburg.

A Man Struck a Match in His Cellar and His Entire Building Was Destroyed.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 26.—The three-story brick dwelling of M. F. Pritchard, No. 2918 Smallman street, was blown to atoms yesterday morning by an explosion of natural gas.

Mr. Pritchard, wife and three children, a hired boy named David Bennett, and Barbara Reich, a servant girl, were buried in the ruins. When rescued they all seemed to be more or less seriously burned and bruised, but no one was fatally injured.

The cause of the explosion was a leakage in the cellar.

Mr. Pritchard keeps a grocery store in his building and went to the cellar for a customer. He struck a match and the explosion followed. The concussion was terrific, pieces of the building being blown half a square away. It is considered a miracle that any of those in the building at the time should have escaped with their lives.

Mrs. Pritchard and the three children, aged 4, 7 and 9 years respectively, were in bed on the third floor and were taken out of the cellar. The loss on the building and contents was $4,000, on which there was $1,800 insurance.

WILL HONOR THE BISHOP.

Rome, Dec. 26.—It is the intention of the pope to confer the grand order of the Cross of Christ upon the archbishop of Aix, as a token of the sympathy of his holiness with the archbishop in the latter's recent trial, conviction and fine for writing a letter, classed as insulting, to M. Fallieres, the French minister of public worship.

BLIZZARD ON THE WAY.

The Christmas Weather Got Side-Tracked.

A Roaring Storm Raging in the West.

Trains Delayed, Cattle Killed, and Much Other Damage Caused in Many Western States.

St Paul, Minn., Dec. 26.—The big storm which has been raging in the Dakotas for the last 30 hours reached here yesterday morning and the snow fell steadily all day, accompanied by a heavy wind. Pedestrians found some difficulty in getting about but there was no great delay in street railway traffic. Trains from the west were delayed to some extent, that on the Northern Pacific due here at 5:50 last evening being over four hours late. The cold wave is moving rapidly in this direction. At 10 p. m. the temperature ranged from six to 24 degrees below zero over both Dakotas, Manitoba and northern Minnesota. The signal service reports that the storm will move eastward over the St. Lawrence valley Saturday.

Reports from Omaha state that the storm extended throughout Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming and the Dakotas. In Wyoming the loss of stock is reported unusually large, with a complete train blockade.

An Awful Gale.

Duluth, Minn., Dec. 26.—The storm of yesterday and last night was one of the severest blizzards ever known here. The wind has been known to blow here about as hard as it did in last night's storm, but the oldest inhabitant could not remember when it blew so continuous.

Many fears are entertained for the tug Edward Frisks, which put out for Two Harbors Thursday night. This morning the weather is less severe, but the mercury continues a downward course, ranging now at five above.

Ten Below.

St. Paul, Minn, Dec. 26.—To-day was ushered in by a bright, clear morning, with the thermometer registering 10 degrees below zero. There is about three inches of snow on the ground which fell yesterday.

TURNED OUT OF THEIR HOMES

Cruel Evictions in the Heart of London.

Poor, Starving People Driven from Their Squalid Shelter by Officers of the Law.

London, Dec. 26.—A block of squalid buildings in Leather Lane, in the Holborn district, was recently condemned, and the time given for the people inhabiting the block to leave their dwellings expired.

Some of them had already left, but 48 families, comprising 130 persons, lingered in the hope that they would not be dispossessed.

But as soon as the legal limit of time had expired, officers began the eviction of the tenants, and the furniture was thrown into the roadway. The tenants were warned not to return to the tenements, and the doors were locked.

The scene on the street was distressing. Women and children, scantily clad, stood about crying piteously, their faces blue and pinched and their forms shivering. Some tradesmen in the vicinity took pity on the unfortunates and furnished a quantity of coke. Fires were started in the street, and about the welcome piles of glowing coke the women and children crouched, thankful for even this small blessing.

It was believed that the tenants might resist their eviction and a strong force of police was present and prevented any disturbance. The evicted people were compelled to remain on the street all night. There is general indignation expressed that the tenants should have been evicted during such an inclement season.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 26.—Mrs. Annie Kelly, a widow aged 45 years, was burned to death this morning in her grocery store. A kerosene lamp that was standing on a barrel in the store exploded and egress being cut off by the flames, she was suffocated and burned before assistance could arrive. The woman weighed 280 pounds and it is supposed that she could not get the bars removed from the door in time to escape.

STOLE HIS SAVINGS.

The Theft Discovered at a Rather Late Day.

Farmer Houchin's Trunk Stolen from Under His Bed with Eight Hundred Dollars in Cash.

Wapakoneta, O., Dec. 26.—(Special)—Several days ago while the family were absent the residence of Robert Houchin, a wealthy farmer living near Lake View, a village about twenty miles southeast of here, was entered by thieves.

Nothing was missed from the house at the time, and it was supposed that the miscreants had been unsuccessful in their search for plunder.

Yesterday a trunk, which had been broken open and ransacked, was found about a mile north of the village.

Upon investigation it was ascertained that the trunk was the property of Houchin, and that it was one in which he had deposited $800, and placed it under his bed for safe-keeping. This money the thieves secured.

George and Charles White, two well-known young men of the place, who had aroused suspicion by their use of money, were arrested and lodged in jail charged with being the guilty parties.

TAKING THE TESTIMONY.

Uncle Sam Still Looking Into the Baltimore Incident.

San Francisco, Dec. 26.—The steamer Keeweenaw arrived here Thursday from Valparaiso. On board was Patrick Shields, the fireman who was so brutally beaten by the Valparaiso police. Immediately after the steamer had been docked United States Attorney General Carty, acting on telegraphic instructions from Attorney General Miller at Washington, went on board and examined Shields and McKinstry, another fireman who was on shore with Shields shortly before the latter was arrested.

Shields repeated on oath the story of his injuries as already sent out, and McKinstry corroborated the story.

Affidavits will be signed by the men, which will be transmitted to Washington by mail. Shields shows plain marks of the terrible beatings he received.

WORK DAY FOR BOYS.

London, Dec. 26.—The Northumberland miners have rejected by a vote of 8,720 against 2,889, the proposition to advocate a measure providing for a legal day's work of eight hours per day for boys.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Col. Pearsall Lost His Life in the Flames.

Goldsboro, N. C., Dec. 26.—Thursday night the country residence of Col. Wm. Pearsall, a prosperous farmer who lived six miles from here, was burned to the ground.

The neighbors discovered, when they reached the burning building, that all the lower doors and windows were closed. Screams for help were heard from the second story, and the figure of Col. Pearsall, nearly obscured by smoke and flames, was seen but for a moment.

The roof fell in and his cries were forever hushed.

CHRISTMAS IN WHITEHOUSE.

Whitehouse, O., Dec. 26.—(Special)—Three entertainments for Sunday schools at three churches, all well attended, and a dance marked Christmas eve.

Religious services were held at the new Evangelical church Christmas by Rev. Shaffer, the pastor.

Sickness prevails northwest of this place, and many funerals have occurred.

CHICAGO'S CHRISTMAS ROW.

The Police Are Terrors to Wrong Doers.

An Ugly Battle with a Gang of Law-Breakers, Who Were Celebrating the Day by a Drunk.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—A riot, which at one time threatened to be a most bloody one, took place yesterday afternoon as the outcome of a horse race on one of the streets of this city.

A crowd of several hundred males and females, black and white, assembled on Custom House Place to celebrate. The street was turned into a race course, a shot from a revolver being the "starter's" signal. Two races in quick succession had been run and a third was being started when a squad of policemen arrived.

At the same time a general fight was commenced in a neighboring saloon, and bullets came crashing through the windows. Two officers in citizen's clothes gained entrance to the saloon, and being recognized, the cry went up, "Lock the doors and kill the officers," and at the same time the key was turned in the lock.

Backing into a corner the officers drew their revolvers, faced the ugly crowd and threatened to shoot the first man who moved. Their nerve paralyzed the crowd for a moment, and by that time brother officers burst open the saloon door and rescued their comrades.

The crowd was determined not to leave the saloon, but after a desperate struggle the officers emerged from the place each with a fighting, struggling, desperate prisoner. The patrol wagon was waiting near by, and despite the efforts of the crowd in the street, whose sympathies were with the prisoners, the officers succeeded in landing their prisoners in the wagon.

While not a shot was fired by the officers, they were compelled to keep up a running fight while in the neighborhood, using their revolvers as billies. As the wagon was moving away a burly negro named Robert Johnson sprang forward and shouted to the crowd: "Come on, let's take them away and kill the d——d coppers."

He was knocked down by a blow from a revolver and unceremoniously thrown into the wagon. With drawn revolvers the way was cleared for the wagon to pass through the crowd, the prisoners constantly struggling for freedom. The whole crowd followed the wagon to the Harrison street station, but despite a last desperate struggle the wagon load of prisoners were safely placed behind the bars.

A BIG ROW IN STORE.

The Women Have Put on War Paint.

Charges of Embezzlement Made in Woman's Relief Corps, Department of Ohio.

Canton, O., Dec. 26.—This has been a week of sensations and scandals.

The last one to rent the social fabric and to carry consternation into the various Grand Army and Relief corps circles in the state, is the case of Emma L. Koons, ex-treasurer of the Women's Relief Corps Department of Ohio, against Ada F. Clarke, post department president of Ohio. Mrs. Koons has preferred charges against Mrs. Clarke of embezzling $67 of the department funds, which money she is said to have appropriated to her own use.

These charges were filed at department headquarters. Upon hearing of this action Mrs. Clarke immediately made a sweeping denial, and demanded an immediate investigation. This is now said to be in progress. The end is not yet. Criminations and recriminations are being indulged in.

A prominent local ex-officer of the state department is charged with having occupied the same room with a prominent Grand Army man at the encampment at Steubenville this year. The same woman is also charged with gross indiscretions with a leading Grand Army man of the east. Those in the fight claim they are in it to the bitter end, and that the case will soon take such shape as will throw it into the courts.

Colonel Nathan Holloway, a leading business man and a public-spirited and highly respected citizen, has in print had his name handled in such a manner as to draw from him a righteous denunciation. He threatens libel proceedings. Mrs. Koons says she is not ready to talk. She has consulted attorneys and thinks she will be ready to make her intentions public in a few days.

She has had her name handled publicly in a scandalous manner. She is not surprised, she says, at the venom exhibited by the opposition, but she will soon be ready to show that it is much better to have her name coupled with that of a nice gentleman than to be guilty of such acts as she will be ready to prove against certain members. Mrs. Clarke made a sweeping denial of the charge, saying there was not the slightest foundation for it, and that as soon as she had heard of the charge she had notified the auditing committee of department, demanding an investigation of the accounts.

VICTIM OF THE WRECK.

Miss Nellie Gertrude Moore Among the Dead.

A Popular Young Lady with Many Friends in Norwalk Has Been Killed.

Norwalk, O., Dec. 26.—Special)—Word has just been received here that Miss Nellie Gertrude Moore was one of the victims of the railroad accident Thursday night on Hudson river road at Hastings, N. Y.

She was the daughter of Mrs. Nellie Moore, of Medina, N. Y., and grand daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kennan, of this city, and niece of George Kennan, the well-known Russian traveler.

She was residing in New York city and was on her way to spend the Christmas holidays with her mother in Medina. She was a beautiful young lady, 21 years of age, and had many friends and relatives in this city.

The Battle-Ground of the Revolution to be Marked by an Imposing Structure—The Corner Stone.

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 26.—To-day is a memorable one in the history of Trenton. Apart from the laying of the corner stone of the first battle monument in New Jersey, the anniversary of the battle of Trenton is being observed with more imposing ceremonies than ever before.

All the houses and places of business in the city are profusely decorated, and this afternoon an unusual occurrence will happen in the meeting of three revolutionary societies, namely, the Society of the Cincinnati, the Sons of the American Revolution, and the Sons of Revolution.

At noon Gov. Abbett laid the corner stone of the monument, making his address on the subject, "New Jersey, the Battle Ground of the Revolution," after which a salute of 44 guns was fired and the benediction pronounced by the bishop of Trenton.

At 1 p. m. the Society of the Cincinnati held a special meeting in the Masonic temple, followed by a luncheon, at which the speakers and subjects were as follows:

Hon. Leon Abbett, "Our Country's Flag, the Symbol of Patriotism;" Col Asa Bird, United States army, "Our French Allies in the War of the Revolution;" Hon. J. D. Bedle, ex-governor of New Jersey, "The Revolutionary Independence of New Jersey."

The Sons of the American Revolution met at the American house at 12:30 and after lunch addresses were made. At 4 o'clock this afternoon the exercises commemorative of the battle of Trenton will take place at Taylor's opera house. It is a public meeting and will be presided over by Gen. W. J. Sewell.

THE INDIANA STRIKE.

It Has Been Officially Declared Off.

Many of the Strikers May Have Trouble In Getting Back to Work for Some Time.

Terre Haute, Ind, Dec. 26.—It is not a settled fact that the Indiana miners, though the strike has been declared off, will be able to get regular work, but the probabilities seem to be that they will.

Some delay may be occasioned on account of the operators having to work their way back into the market, but it is believed that the majority of the contracts have been held by the mine owners.

"What are the chances of the Indiana operaters being able to furnish their men regular work?" was asked of Mr. J. Smith Talley.

"That question," he replied, "cannot be answered just now. We do not know and have no way of finding out sooner than perhaps within the next eight or ten days."

State President Cummesky was seen at his home and requested to give his opinion of the outlook. He had been slightly under the weather, and had not felt like considering the question carefully, he said, but from appearances he was inclined to judge that the men would be able to get work, that matters would settle down and that all would be running smoothly within a short time.

"What has the strike accomplished?" was asked.

"In my opinion," answered the president, "it has not been barren of good results. I think it has taught a double lesson, a lesson to the operators and to the men which will bear fruit in time to come. The radical elements of both sides have been subdued, educated, and there seems reason to hope that in the future conservative ideas will prevail to the benefit of everybody concerned.

"Hereafter we shall doubtless understand each other better for this brief term in the school of experience, and shall bring to our coming joint convention a mutual spirit of fairness and justice, from which well proceed great common good. I am a warm sympathizer in the joint interstate movement, and live in hope of seeing it re-established.

"When the operators and men come together, each side fairly disposed, each side deeply concerned in an amicable and equitable settlement, I cannot but believe that their object is easy of attainment.

"If this strike has demonstrated to the operators and the miners that their proper courses lie parallel and that their interests can be conserved only by harmonious relations being maintained—if it has done this, and I believe it has, the end more than justifies the means."

Conservative estimate places the loss resulting from the strike at a million and three-quarters of dollars, considered in its whole breadth an extent—something incalculable with any degree of definiteness—it was probably more than that. Nearly one-half of the enormous sum comes out of the pockets of the men, or rather was never put in them.

A goodly portion of the remainder shows up in the greatly decreased earnings of the railways, the principal loser among the latter having been the Chicago & Indiana coal road.

According to Mr. H. H. Porter's estimate, that line sustained a daily loss as a result of the suspension of about $5,000, or $150,000 per month. This strike was on for fully two months, which would indicate that the Chicago & Indiana coal road suffered to the extent of $300,000 itself. Beside the men and the railways, general business and industrial and commercial and industrial was affected to a considerable extent.

ELEVEN WERE KILLED.

The Disaster on the New York Central.

Train Allowed to Plunge at the Rate of Forty Miles an Hour into a Sleeping Car Full of People.

New York, Dec. 26.—The accident which occurred on the New York Central railway Thursday night at Hastings-on-the-Hudson has proved to be much greater than appeared from reports received last night. The official list of the dead, as given out, number 11 people.

J. R. Bagnelle, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., badly burned about the face and injured internally.

Injured: J. C. Gould, traveling engineer, New York Central; Mr. McCormick; Miss Freyer, Poughkeepsie; Homer R. Baldwin, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose B. Tremain, Brooklyn.

A Brakeman's Negligence.

The terrible disaster was due to the carelessness of Brakeman Albert E. Herrick of the Buffalo express, which was lying still below Hastings. Herrick fled and has not yet been found. He left his uniform in the train and put on his citizen's clothes. From the official report given out to-day by Third Vice President Webb of the Central road, train No. 95, which left New York at 6:40 p. m., last night, stopped at Dobbs Ferry to make some slight repairs on the engine. The distant signal was thrown out, and the following train, the Buffalo and Niagara Falls special, which left here at 7:30 p. m., was stopped about three-quarters of a mile south of Dobbs Ferry station. The conductor of No. 45 immediately sent a brakeman, Herrick, back to signal the coming train. He proceeded as far as the station at Hastings. He went inside and talked with the station master, waiting for the Cincinnati and St. Louis express, No. 7, which left the city at 8 o'clock. While Herrick was standing near the door the St. Louis express whizzed past, running at the rate of 40 miles an hour.

Engineer J. Donohue of the St. Louis express received no warning whatever of the presence of the Buffalo express, on the track ahead, until he was almost on the train. He reversed his engine, put on the air brakes and jumped for his life. The engine of No. 7 crashed into the rear sleeper, Gibraltar, of the Buffalo special, with terrific force. There were 22 people in the sleeping car at the time.

The remains of J. W. White, the porter, who died of his injuries this morning, will be shipped to his home in Virginia. The coroner released the bodies at the scene of the disaster to-day, and they will be brought to this city by the relatives.

The ballast of the New York Central is of stone. Here and there between the tracks are great blotches of blood, dried and clotted, two and three feet in diameter. The sight is sickening. All else that remains to tell the story of the frightful disaster is the tin roof of the Wagner sleeping car, Gibraltar. This is still lying in a smoldering mass at the side of the track where the disaster occurred. The rest of the car was burned. The trucks of the car and all the other movable wreckage, as well as the damaged cars, have been removed by the wrecking trains on the New York Central road.

When the St. Louis express crashed into the sleeping car Gibraltar, which was in the rear of the Niagara express, the engine was completely lost in the interior of the sleeping car. The heavy wood and iron work of the Gibraltar was reduced to splinters.

There were 18 passengers in the Gibraltar, and all but three of them were killed or injured. The hiss of the escaping steam and the cries and groans of the wounded and dying passengers could be heard a long distance. The appeals of the wounded and the cries of the dying were heart-rending. A moment later the Gibraltar took fire. The hands of both trains quickly recovered from the momentary shock and rushed to the aid of the imprisoned people. The passengers from both trains followed suit, and soon a score of persons had organized themselves into a relief party. One after another the wounded and dying were taken out. Axes were torn from the cars, and by the light of lamps and torches men began to chop away the burning woodwork of the Gibraltar. They were urged on by the cries of the injured and dying people within. Some of the uninjured passengers hurried back to the depot at Hastings to summon help and stop any other trains that might be coming.

To add to the horror of the occasion thieves got to work and began to rob the injured passengers.

How much they secured is not known. It was not known that thieves were at work at the time of the accident, and the fact was not discovered until this morning. A number of volunteers worked among the injured passengers, and it is possible that this was made a cloak for stealing by some. This morning Undertaker Vanderbilt, in preparing the remains of Mr. Polley, one of the dead, for burial, discovered that the body had been robbed. Upon removing the clothing from the body he found that the pockets had been rifled. All of his jewelry, money and wallet are missing.

The coroner this morning took possession of the effects of the dead, and will hold them until they are claimed by relatives of the deceased.

The scenes about the waiting room at Dobbs Ferry were pathetic. Little Homer Baldwin, a son of Mrs. A. M. Baldwin, was crying for his mother. His arms were bruised, but the child seemed anxious to know how his mother was. He did not know that she had been instantly killed. The child had been sleeping in the same berth with his mother. Two young girls were among the injured.

Among the passengers in the Gibraltar was Mr. J. C. Gould, traveling engineer of the New York Central. He was one of the three men who escaped unhurt. He said that no one in the Gibraltar had any idea of the danger until they heard the roar of the St. Louis express right behind them. The next instant the crash came. In less time than it takes to tell it the locomotive had crushed right into the sleeper and the escaping steam was scalding the passengers to death. For a moment there was absolute silence, and then the most awful shrieks and groans were heard from the passengers of the car. Mr. Gould does not know how he got out of the car.

The unknown man, who is supposed to be either Lawyer Johnes or Lawyer Wilcox, wore a gold watch numbered 73,615. There was also found in his clothing a baggage check No. 79, from New York to Dunkirk, eight business cards of the firm of Johnes & Wilcox, lawyers, and a small leather case containing Brooklyn bridge tickets.

The unidentified body at the Tarrytown morgue has been ascertained to be that of Edwin S. Wilcox, of the law firm of Wilcox & Johnes, of New York.

HILL ON THE PARDON.

Why He Released Welch from Prison.

The Governor of New York Talks Plainly on a Question of Much Interest Just Now.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 26.—Gov. Hill's reasons for pardoning Thomas J. Welch, the Onondaga county supervisor sentenced to 30 days' imprisonment by Judge Kennedy for contempt of court, are given in the following opinion:

"This is an application for executive clemency on behalf of Thomas J. Welch, who has been adjudged by an order granted by Mr. Justice Kennedy to be guilty of a criminal contempt and sentenced to imprisonment in the common jail of Onondaga county for 30 days and to pay a fine of $250, the extreme punishment authorized by law.

"Welch was a member of the board of supervisors and of the board of canvassers of Onondaga county. The proceeding under which it is attempted to inflict this punishment grows out of the canvass of the votes cast at the recent election in that county. It does not appear that Welch disobeyed any order of the court directed to him. Judge Kennedy, sitting at special term, made an order requiring the board of county canvassers to send back the returns for correction in certain election districts. The order was without precedent, and its legality is open to serious question.

"The board, meeting under the compulsory mandate, and after it had passed a resolution that there were no errors appearing upon the returns requiring correction, directed Welch to take back the returns in the election districts in his ward. Before he could comply with this direction of the board he was subpoenaed to produce the returns before me upon the trial of charges of official misconduct against the clerk of Onondaga county. One of these charges was that the clerk had made certain alterations of those returns, or permitted the same to be made in his office, and the charge could not be properly determined by me without the actual production of the returns before and the inspection thereof by me. As soon as the hearing was concluded and a decision reached the papers were returned to Syracuse and were sent to the inspectors, and finally corrected, as the order of the court required.

"Aside from the grave questions involved as to the validity of the order of the court, which it is claimed that Welch disobeyed, I am satisfied that he ought not to suffer punishment on account of what he did under these circumstances.

"I am entirely familiar with what has taken place in this county during the past thirty days, by which it has been attempted under the guise of judicial proceedings to compel the board of county canvassers to declare results not authorized by law. Every member of that board, in the discharge of his official duty, was justified in resorting to all honorable and lawful means to prevent the consummation of the great wrong which was contemplated. It was sought to substitute a partisan judge in place of the board of canvassers and to nullify the plain provisions of the ballot-reform law. Every member of the bored who endeavored to defeat this partisan scheme and to maintain the dignity and jurisdiction of that body, upon whom the law had conferred the right to canvass the votes, is entitled to commendation, not to punishment. Never before in the history of the state has there been such an arbitrary use of judicial power attempted.

"There is another sufficient reason why executive clemency should be interposed. Welch has made application for a stay of proceedings, pending an appeal from Judge Kennedy's order adjudging him in contempt, which has been arbitrarily denied. This is equivalent to a denial of justice, for, before his appeal can be heard and determined, the sentence will have been executed and he will hav suffered the greatest punishment which the law permits the court to inflict.

"No matter how illegal or irregular was the order which he is accused of violating or how unauthorized the proceeding which resulted in his conviction, there is no adequate redress for him in the courts.

"It is for just such exceptional cases that the pardoning power was wisely vested by the constitution in the governor, and there should be no hesitation to exercise it when invoked in such a case.

"The attempt to imprison Welch at this time for thirty days has a peculiar significance, when it is known that the board of supervisors without him is tied politically and it is now in session and will be called upon immediately to appoint a superintendent to the Onodaga penitentiary, a position of conceded political importance. The constituents of Mr. Welch have a right to representation in the board which ought to have been respected and action in this matter postponed until the board had disposed of the important public business which required its attention. There was no occasion for such undue haste, unless it was intended in this way to deprive the people of a voice in the county legislature, and a lawfully-elected majority of the board of its power to give expression to the popular will."

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Ida Van Cortland a Success as Lucretia Borgia.

Dockstader's Minstrels To-Night—Stuart Robson in the Henrietta—Attractions Next Week.

Ida Van Cortland, in Lucretia Borgia, drew two large audiences at Wheeler's opera house yesterday. The play is a strong tragedy, a tale of intrigue and poison, with a mother's love as the only bright beam in the whole horrible story.

Miss Van Cortland, as Lucretia Borgia, interpreted this difficult character in a manner that was a surprise and showed that she has a future before her in this line.

The company supported Miss Van Cortland in an able manner and the work of Albert Traverner, as Gubetta, W. J. Butler, as Genarro, and Robert Wayne, as Maffio, was especially good.

The Minstrels To-night.

Lew Dockstader will appear at Wheeler's to-night with his newly organized minstrel company. It has been the aim of the management to make this the leading company in America and to that end they have secured as leading artists the following: Geo. Powers, comedian, end man and banjo soloist, well known and popular; Frank Girard, the veteran comedian and stage manager, whose funny sketches have made New York theatergoers laugh for many seasons past; McIntyre and Heath, exponents of the southern negro in a new sketch introducing their plantation songs and dances; Cain and Loreno, the burlesque aerial artists in thrilling and laughable feats on the trapeze; the three Marvelles, grotesque contortionists and dancers in a funny act called "From the Sublime to the Ridiculous;" Perry and Magrew in a burlesque boxing exhibition. The vocal department is strong and includes eight vocalists led by the famous English tenor, Fred Salcomb, who will be heard for the first time in America. Besides the above headlights, the talented Dockstader will present an entirely new and original special act in which he will appear as "The Modern Beau Brummel," with numerous bright, witty stories and original topical songs. Every performance will conclude with McIntyre and Heath's Ethiopian musical farce comedy entitled "Hotel Punch de Leon."

Stuart Robson.

The engagement of Stuart Robson in the Henrietta, at Wheeler's next Wednesday, promises to be an event in the theatrical season fully equal to those of Joe Jefferson and Sol Smith Russell. Robson is a great favorite here as elsewhere and the Henrietta is a splendid play.

Katie Emmett.

The People's theater New Year's week attraction, opening Monday evening, will be Miss Katie Emmett in The Waifs of New York, which has already met with much success throughout the country. Miss Emmett is supported by one of the best dramatic companies, consisting of the following well-known players: Amy Ames, George W. Thompson, Willard Lee, Leslie Edmunds, Ida Burrows, Nellie Edmunds, Edward Clifford, Gus Hennessy, Edward Lester, Thomas Massengale and Charles Prior.

The play going public chooses its own favorites among actors and actresses, and warms to them season by season quite regardless of managerial efforts. As a consequence it often happens that a modest young woman who makes no pretentions in the beginning of the stage career finds herself singled out by theater-goers and made a favorite before she has time to realize that she is the possessor of qualities that lift her above the rest of her class. Miss Emmett was made a public pet without seeking or even thinking of such a thing.

The play in which Miss Emmett appears, The Waifs of New York, is in line with this actress' charming personality. It portrays the hardships endured by that large class of homeless ones which every large city knows, and it shows their native nobility and generosity. Miss Emmett herself impersonates one of these waifs, Willie Rufus, and in the role of the stout-hearted little vagrant does more to create a loving sympathy on the part of the public at large for just such unfortunates than half the missions of the country. It is impossible to see Miss Emmett's performance without looking thereafter with much more kindness into the grim faces of the street Arabs who trot along at your side crying shines and papers.

In every city in the country Miss Emmett is the staunch friend of these waifs, and many performances are given by her each season for their benefit.

Effie Elisler.

One of the most interesting events the coming theatrical season is likely to present is the reappearance of Effie Ellsler in Hazel Kirke.

Miss Ellsler, as is well known to all theater goers, is the young and talented actress who was for so long a time identified with the Madison Square theater as leading lady, and whose pathos, grace and artistic rendering of the part of Hazel Kirke in the play of that name, gave the piece the phenomenal run of two years at the above theater, and subsequently for the same length of time on the road, and gave to Hazel Kirke a life and glory little dreamed of by its author, Steele Mackaye.

Miss Ellsler is wise in seeking to avail herself of such wide-spread favor, and to return as she has for this season to her former triumph.

She is also wise in the selection of her company, having engaged as far as possible, the members of her old company, more particularly Mr. C. W. Couldock, who, as the original Dunstan Kirke, every one who has ever seen him will not fail to remember. And Mr. Frank Weston, the original Pittacus Green, as well as others in the original cast.

Her appearance in Toledo will be at Wheeler's opera house New Year's day only, matinee and night.

Mr. George M. Herbert, an amusing comedian and an excellent singer, plays the part of Tobias Quickly, an operatic impressario, in Poor Jonathan this season, with Conried's Comic Opera company.

Perry and McGrew do an exceedingly funny act in Lew Dockstader's minstrel entertainment. Perry is over six and one-half feet tall and McGrew not quite four feet. Their boxing match creates roaring fun.

Mme. Marie Geraldy-Delsarte made her first public appearance last week in the Lyceum theater, New York, before the students and faculty of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, and after witnessing some of the exercises of the students, addressed them briefly.

Gilbert & Collier's new opera, The Mountebank, will see the light at the Lyric theater, London, next week. It appears that Mr. Gilbert offered the libretto of the piece to a prominent New York manager for one year for the modest sum of $15,000, the music to be paid for in addition. Said manager, having in mind Mr. Gilbert's unsuccessful ventures in Ruddygore, The Yeomen of the Guard, and The Gondoliers, very properly refused to negotiate till he should have seen the book. Mr. Gilbert for some time refused, but recently showed it to the manager's London agent, who promptly refused it. If the opera is a success this will probably cost him money—if he wants it—but Mr. Gilbert's star is certainly on the wane. Were it not for the conservative faithfulness of the British public to those who have once amused or pleased it, The Gondoliers could never have run it did in London for a year and a half. Even then Mr. D'Oyly Carte lost money on the production from first to last.

POTATO BUTTONS.

The Toothsome Vegetable in a New Garb.

There need be no fear of an over-production of potatoes now, since it has been found that by treating the substance of the potato with certain acids, and then subjecting it to great pressure, there is obtained a material almost like stone, which can be employed for many of the purposes to which horn and bone have been used. The buttons made of potato can only be distinguished from those of bone by close examination by an expert.

The new button can be colored in any desirable shade, and their cheapness will probably insure their popularity in the future. It is stated that a German factory is making these buttons in considerable quantities.

IRISH WIT.

Mike McFlangarthy is a true-hearted son of Ireland and a genius in his way, and many stories are told of his ready wit.

The other day an old gentleman of philanthropic temperament, but slightly intolerant of any religious body but his own, passing where Mike was at work making mortar, stopped and asked what sort of a building was going up. Mike replied, "A church."

"A church, eh? Of what denomination?"

"No denomination at all, yer honor, but a Holy Roman Catholig church."

"I am sorry to hear it," exclaimed the old gentleman.

"That's what the divil said when he passed here," retorted Mike, as he resumed his work.—Buffalo Courier.

DEATH SUPERSTITIONS.

Death superstitions are rife in the West Indies. To the people there everything out of the ordinary is a "sign." In Cuba a person with a sore or wound of any kind will not look upon a dead person, fearing that the spot will become incurable. The rum used in washing a dead body is, however, regarded as a sure cure for all eye troubles. If the light from a candle or lamp falls on the face of the dead, death will shortly come to him or her who was carrying the light. Rain during a burial is considered an excellent "sign" throughout the islands. If one measures his own height with a rod which has been used in measuring a corpse for the coffin he himself will die within the year. A stroke with the hand of a corpse is believed by the West Indian to be a sure cure for all pains and swellings.

OUR CURES ARE PERMANENT.

Read What a Gentleman Says Who Was Treated Last Summer.

Six months ago there was published in all of the Toledo papers the story of Mr. Joseph Coombs, who lives at 384 Indiana avenue. Mr. Coombs' case attracted widespread attention at the time, and there were many to say that the relief he found was only temporary and would soon pass away. Mr. Coombs, now desires to verify his statement of last July, and to testify to the permanency and make still stronger what he then said of his cure. Mr. Coombs said last July:

MR. JOSEPH COOMBS, 384 INDIANA AVE.

"A year ago I had la grippe, and it had left its deadly effects. My head and nose were so completely stopped up as to make it almost impossible for me to breathe. My eyes weak and watery, ringing noises in my ears, a constant hawking and spitting, trying to raise a substance that seemed to close my throat; the mucus would drop from the back of my head to the throat, which was a constant source of annoyance.

"I was pretty near a wreck. Everything I knew for the treatment of catarrh, and every physician I ever heard of I tried to relieve me of my suffering, but with no result. My head has at times, as I thought, come so near bursting that I would cry for 'help,' fearing my mind would be affected by the awful pain.

"In this condition I heard of Dr. Copeland and associates, and concluded to consult them. This I did, and also began treatment, and to-day I am so much better my whole life seems to have changed. I cannot say too much in praise of Dr. Copeland and associates, for they have certainly saved me from a fate worse than death, and let me say again, that as a citizen and a gentleman, I deem it my sacred duty to have my statement made public for the sake of others who, perhaps at this time, are where I was three weeks ago."

And now, six months after Mr. Coombs made the above statement, he says: "I am entirely cured and as healthy as ever I was. That statement of mine was NOT STRONG ENOUGH for the good you have done me. I will gladly see and answer all doubters of your skill and the permanence of your cures."

Mr. Joseph Coombs is employed as night watchman in the Toledo Blade building, where he can be seen and this statement readily verified.

The Board of Trustees Somewhat Exercised and Roused.

Messrs. Greene and Brown Make Interesting Statements.

Confusion Becoming Worse Confounded—Gross Mismanagement the Effect, Ruin the Result.

The exposure of the gross mismanagement of the city natural gas department in Thursday evening's Bee has been the cause of widespread comment, and the facts as given have been endorsed by many who seem to have personal knowledge of the affairs of the board.

Evidence of even worse methods of management have come to light, and now that a large number having served their connection with the department, are unmuzzled, so to speak, facts actually startling are coming gradually to light.

The Commercial's intimation that Mr. Clarence Brown gave the facts for Thursday's article is false. It is not necessary just now, nor at any time since the wholesale discharge took place, too seek a trustee for the information. As a matter of fact the article was written and in type before the writer knew that Mr. Brown was about to resign.

Relative to the Air Line Junction corner lot deal, it is but justice to say that gas had nothing to do with the sale of lots, as the city's gas has never reached the Junction.

Gen. J. W. Greene was seen by a Bee this morning. "I regret exceedingly the present situation," he said, "but I don't feel like saying much on the subject."

"Did you read the article in Thursday's Bee?"

"No, I did not, but I have heard of it. Indeed, I know enough of the irregularities without getting pointers from anyone."

"To what irregularities do you refer?"

"I don't wish to be interviewed. Your own experience at the board meetings should give you information enough."

"General, have you any personal knowledge of people receiving gas without paying for it?"

"Well, I know of people who use gas and who have not paid for it, and so do other members of the board. I brought the matter up at a recent meeting of the board."

"General, under the contract contractors were oblized to pay the inspectors were they not?"

"Yes."

"Did they do so?"

"No they did not. We paid the inspectors. It was just this way. We made the contract so that these inspectors should be paid by the contractors and were to be given credit for money thus expended when the final estimate was presented. The city, it seems, paid the inspectors, and when the contractors presented their final estimate charges were made for the inspectors—charges the city had already paid. When the estimate came before our committee the mistake was discovered and corrected."

"Regarding the general mismanage—."

"I have nothing to say. The whole institution is conducted more like an insane asylum that a gas department."

"Where should the blame if any be placed?"

"That I am not prepared to say."

"General, it is intimated that you have threatened to resign."

"Well, I wouldn't put it that way. I said a few days ago at a committee meeting that if things continued to go on as they were doing the entire board should resign."

Mr. Brown's Statement.

"Did you read the article in the Bee Thursday relative to the mismanagement of the natural gas business?" Mr. Clarence Brown was asked by a Bee.

"Yes, I read it."

"What do you know as to the charges made in that article?"

"As a trustee I know of some of the matters therein referred to as they were brought before the board. Other matters contained in the article are new to me. Still others came to my attention only through rumors which I had not time to investigate."

"On whom do you think the blame, if any, for this mismanagement should be placed?"

"I do not think it would be proper for me to express an opinion upon that subject. Having occupied a seat on that board for upwards of three years, it would be unmanly for me now, after my resignation, to assume to criticise my former associates on the board, or seek to cast upon them the responsibility of alleged mismanagement. During my service upon the board, I often had occasion to disagree with the policy that met the approval of the majority, particularly during the past few months. I also had occasion to criticise, as a trustee, the management of the affairs by the officers and employes of the board. Those differences of opinion and criticisms related to some of the matters mentioned in your article. To that extent my views are public, and were shown at the time by my vote in the board. Further than this I do not care to go now. I am quite willing to accept the responsibility for any act of the board wherein I concurred with the majority. I have no doubt that all other members of the board are equally willing to accept a like responsibility."

"Do you know, from personal knowledge, of instances where people are using gas of which no account has been kept?"

"I have no personal knowledge of such instances, although in common with other trustees, I know such facts to exist through the reports of the employes; and, in some cases, through reports from consumers to whom no bills were rendered. I do not think, however, that in your article, you gave due consideration to the confusion that would necessarily result from the haste that was necessary in the making of connections. You will remember that there was a great rush of work in order to secure contracts by the first of November. It was impossible to get anything like the necessary help to make all connections applied for. Every available person reputed to be competent was employed for that purpose. In making over 5,000 connections, it was but natural that mistakes and omissions should result."

"Have not those mistakes been more frequent than would ordinarily result from such haste, and is it not true that they have not been remedied even after this lapse of time?"

"I always thought they were too frequent, and many of them have not yet been remedied."

"Do you know of instances where employes discharged for drunkenness, etc., were reinstated by the orders of any member of the board?"

"I have heard of such instances; or, rather, I have heard that such discharged employes were reinstated by order of the manager upon the request of a member of the board; but I have no personal knowledge on this subject."

"When did you determine to resign?"

"Some months since I reached the conclusion that it would be necessary for me to resign. The time of my resignation was decided upon the day I handed it in, and then because of the urgent and almost continuous demands of gas business upon my time and attention, and because it was impossible for me to give those affairs the amount of time and work which they require."

"Do you care to give any explanation of your resignation other than that given in your communication to the mayor?"

"No. During my entire membership of the board, it has simply been a question of when, in my own interest, I would be compelled to resign. As you know, there was no connection between the publication of your article of Thursday night and my resignation. After my resignation was written and ready for delivery to the mayor, I told you of my conclusion. You then told me that you had, on the previous day, written an article criticising the management. At the time my resignation was written, I had not the slightest idea that any such publication was contemplated, and, at the time your article was written, you had no intimation of my intention to resign. As you know, also, the information upon which your article was based was not obtained from or through me, either directly or indirectly, except as you may have heard me comment upon certain matters during the session of the board, and those comments you published at the time."

"Suppose the mayor refuses to accept your resignation, what then?"

"I do not think there is any disposition upon the mayor's part to decline to accept my resignation. Indeed, a resignation is a matter of right, and, as I understand it, takes effect, in an office like this, regardless of acceptance."

"Can the natural gas plant, properly managed, be made a profitable investment, and why?"

"There is, in my opinion, no reason why the city pipe line project should not, with proper management, be made a complete success, and a profitable investment. The plant is giving better service to its consumers this season than was given by the Northwestern company last winter to the majority of its consumers. You should not fail to make due allowance for the unexpectedly large number of consumers connected with the city plant. You will remember it was said last fall that we would not be likely to secure more than 1,500 consumers. Indeed, that number exceeded the estimate of the board. But the great majority of our people, with their customary loyalty to the enterprise, came to our aid in the city piping, and we found that, instead of having 1,500 consumers, the number of applications exceeded 6,000. We actually contracted with more than 5,000, and, had we had a sufficient development of gas and the means to reach them, 10,000 consumers might easily have been obtained.

"In my opinion there is plenty of gas in the field. It is true the pressure is reduced, and, in consequence less gas is delivered to the city, and an increased number of wells is required.

"The floating debt incurred by the natural gas department should be put on a more permanent and economical basis, and then the available income, properly husbanded and expended, will be more than sufficient to meet operating expenses, including the development of territory. There is no reason why, with satisfactory management, our natural gas plant should not realize the reasonable expectations of its promoters.

"In all discussions relating to the plant, we should always bear in mind the advantages already received. There is no question but that we would to-day be paying 25, or possibly 30 cents a thousand for gas were it not for the city line. Our experience would have been similar to that of Detroit, Columbus, Springfield and Dayton. Gas at 8 and 12 cents per thousand as against 25 and 30 cents, means hundreds of thousands of dollars to the citizens of Toledo. That advantage we have had for three years. That benefit we are still receiving."

MRS. GOVERNOR CAMPBELL.

Great Uneasiness Felt Over Her Serious Condition.

Columbus, O., Dec. 26.—Mrs. Governor Campbell has not been feeling well for the past few days, but last night her condition was very serious.

She is threatened with peritonitis, and while there is no immediate cause for alarm, the gravest fears as to the result are felt by the governor's family.

MRS JOHN SCHULTHEIS DEAD.

Mrs. John Schultheis, after a brief illness, died at her home, 808 Madison street, at 5 o'clock this morning, of inflammation of the bowels. The deceased was a most estimable lady, and her death will be very generally regretted by the family's wide circle of friends and acquaintances. At her bedside when she passed away, were her husband, her mother, Mrs. Catherine Jones, brother, Mr. Henry Jones, of Fort Wayne, Ind., and her sister, Miss Josie Jones, of this city. Arrangements for the funeral will be made and announced later.

Mrs. Schultheis, whose maiden name was Jones, was born in Fort Wayne in February, 1856, thus making her 35 years and 10 months of age at the time of her death. She was married in Fort Wayne to Mr. John Schultheis 15 years ago, and leaves two little boys to mourn their loss.

THE SENATORIAL GAME.

Xenia, O., Dec. 26.—Hon. William Hahn, Sherman's chief groomer, took occasion to call on Hon. John B. Allen, republican representative-elect from this county.

Of course he was looking after his chief's fences. Mr. Allen told him that he would try and carry out the will of his constituents in the matter of the senatorial contest; that he was going to vote for Mr. McGrew for speaker of the house, as he was his personal friend, etc.

THE CHURCH AND STATE.

The Archbishop of Aix Trouble Again.

Radical Action to be Taken by the Pope.

The Confirming of the Order of Christ Liable to Stir Up Much Trouble Between the French Republic and the Vatican.

Paris, Dec. 26.—The news has been telegraphed from Rome that the pope intends to confer the grand cross of the order of Christ upon the archbishop of Aix. It is almost needless to add that in the present state of public feeling when a movement is on foot to separate church and state, as one of the results of the archbishop of Aix's conduct supported by letters of other distinguished prelates, such a step upon the part of the vatican is most significant. It will be looked upon here, should the news prove correct, as a defiance on the part of the pope of the government of this country and the reply of the French government may not be slow in forthcoming. The archbishop of Bordeaux has made common cause with Monsignor Gouthe-Soulard in a diocesan letter which he addresses to all Catholics of France. The main points of this letter are as follows: The archbishop of Bordeaux defends the right of members of the episcopate to join in pilgrimages to Rome.

According to this prelate the Archbishop of Aix was not prompted by a wish to fight, but was simply overcome by disgust.

The pope, said the archbishop, has no longer hope in earthly defenders outside the ranks of the devout Catholics. He knows they are noble-hearted and intrepid and that their blood is easily fired by the complaint of the weak, and the cries of insulted virtue and outraged honor.

He will find among them avengers as Christ found at Golgotha The pope is head of all in the spiritual order and French Catholics will never suffer him to be in subjection to any earthly power.

This letter naturally has aroused indignation among the supporters of the government and led to preparation of a bill on associations as a preparatory step to the separation of church and state.

It was made evident by the letter of the archbishop of Bordeaux that the ultramontane bishops were acting upon suggestions received from the vatican, and that they were encouraged in setting the government at defiance.

If there was ever any doubt of this, it is furnished by the announcement made today.

The senate, contrary to precedents, has recently shown itself to be strongly anticlerical, as it has just supported the government, by 211 to 57 votes, in a resolution accusing the clergy of jeopardizing the social peace, and of violating the rights of the state.

"SAVE HER OR YOU DIE."

Two Doctors Work Under Difficulties.

A Loaded Shotgun Lookin 'hem in the Face.

A Drunken Husband Stands Guard Over Two Physicians While They Perform a Difficult Operation.

New York, Dec. 26.—A rather blood-chilling adventure, which Dr. Louis Hess, of No. 202 Lee avenue, and Dr. Arthur Smylie had in the apartments of Peter Reiss, a saloon-keeper at No. 238 Hopkins street, Williamsburg, was brought to light through a civil suit for professional services which Dr. Hess instituted against Reiss in the Third district civil court, Brooklyn, before Justice Engle.

Mrs. Reiss was sick three weeks ago, and Reiss kept the physicians imprisoned in her bedroom at the point of a loaded gun and threatened them with death if she died under their treatment. When Reiss fell asleep in a chair while guarding the door the doctors made their escape.

Dr. Kerr was summoned to Reiss' house by a midwife on the afternoon of December 3 to attend Mrs. Reiss. He found her in a very serious condition and called in Dr. Smylie. They concluded that an operation was necessary to save her life and so informed Reiss. He offered no objection and told them that he would rely upon their judgment.

While the operation was in progress a woman whose curiosity was aroused and who peered through the keyhole into Mrs. Reiss' room saw the doctors, with their sleeves rolled up, sitting on chairs near a table.

She saw one take a glittering instrument from a satchel, and thinking that it was a knife and that the physicians had designs upon Mrs. Reiss' life, she ran down to Reiss' store and told him of her fears.

"I saw them sharpening the knife with which they are going to cut your wife," exclaimed the woman.

The news almost drove Reiss out of his mind and he armed himself with a shotgun and hurried to the room in which his wife, the midwife and the doctors were. His excited condition was noticed by Dr. Hess, who asked Reiss what the trouble was.

"Life for life! Life for life!" exclaimed Reiss, as he levelled the weapon at one and then at the other doctor.

The midwife tried to pacify Reiss, but he shouted that he was going to kill both doctors.

"What have we done to you that you want to murder us?" asked Dr. Smylie, who was trembling with fear and who tried to get near enough to the door to escape.

"Don't move another step or you're a dead man," shouted the saloon keeper as he pointed the gun at Dr. Smylie.

Reiss sat down in a chair near the door, and with the weapon still aimed at the the physicians he said:

"If my wife or the child dies under your treatment I shall kill you both like dogs with this gun. Now, go on with your work."

Dr. Hess tried again to calm the excited German, but Reiss simply waved his hand and told him to save the life of his wife or suffer the penalty if she died.

Mrs. Reiss was very weak, but whispered to the midwife to get her husband out of the room. Reiss refused to move until all danger to his wife was over.

Dr. Hess and Dr. Smylie had been in the room nearly an hour when they made a second effort to leave. Reiss appeared to be dozing in his chair, but as Dr. Hess was turning the knob of the hall door Reiss opened his eyes and threatened them with instant death if they left the room. They returned to Mrs. Reiss' bedside, where they remained twenty minutes longer, when Reiss fell into a sound sleep.

The d[illegible] ran out of the house, while several neighbors disarmed Reiss. He was furious when he discovered that he had been outwitted, and was on the point of going to Dr. Hess' house when a relative dissuaded him.

Dr. Hess sent Reiss a bill for $75 for professional services a week later, but Reiss refused to recognize the claim on the ground that the services did not warrant the charge. The physician brought suit to recover the amount, and judgment, with costs, by default was rendered by Justice Engle.

AN ASYLUM IN FLAMES.

Disastrous Conflagration in Pontiac To-Day.

The Fire Beyond Control—Help Called from Other Cities—The Inmates Removed Safely.

Pontiac, Mich., Dec. 26.—Fire started in the north wing of the eastern Michigan asylum for the insane shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. The fire started in an attic in the women's department.

The fire has now got entire control of the north half of the building and at this hour (2:30) it looks as if the entire building would be destroyed.

The inmates were removed with little difficulty and are now nowhere to be seen. They are being safely taken care of in the cottages which at this time come in as a Godsend.

Help has arrived from Detroit fire department.

RAGING FLAMES

Are Sweeping Over the City of Chattanooga.

Three Persons Burned to Death and Two More Fatally Injured by Jumping from Windows.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Dec. 26.—A fire which threatens to be disastrous to the business portion of the city is now raging. It originated in D. B. Loveman & Co.'s large dry goods house which is gutted.

Schwartz Bros. and Christy & Co.'s buildings adjacent are now in flames and the Times and the Press newspaper offices are threatened.

Two girls jumped from the second story windows of Loveman's building and were so badly injured that their lives are despaired of.

Later—Loveman's great retail dry goods store burned to the ground. It is reported that three girls were burned to death. The entire center of the building is threatened. The Times building is on fire, besides half a dozen other buildings, and a high wind is blowing.

AN ARTICLE OF FOOD.

The flower buds of the marsh-marigold are said to make excellent pickles. The common clove is a dried flower bud, and it becomes an ingredient of various articles of food. But the most remarkable of all flower-food is that produced by the Mahua trade of India, whose fleshy blossoms form a staple article of food among the poor. The people of the hill tribes could hardly exist without a regular supply of mahua flowers, which are pulpy and sweet, but somewhat nauseous to the unaccustomed palate. The surplus crop of these blossoms is, to some extent, dried, but the main part of the uneaten supply is put into a rude still, which gives out a copious supply of an exceedingly fiery and irritating arrack, so strong that it has to be diluted with ten or twelve parts of water before it is considered a safe article of beverage.—Albany Journal.

HINDOO BREADMAKING.

The Hindoo, though as primitive in his breadmaking as the Bedouin, is a little more dainty. He waits until the wood fire he has built on the ground has gone to coals; then, putting two or three stones around it, he places on these a shallow metal bowl, the under side being up. When the dough of flour and water has been pressed and pulled into a cake of an inch and a half in thickness he bakes it on top of the bowl. It is by no means a bread to be despised.

There has been a large sale of screens, but there are some very fine ones left, embroidered in gold and in floss, that must go with the rest of the stock, without regard to value or cost. Come in and examine the goods Monday and be on hand early Tuesday to take advantage of the bargains.

THE LEADING EVENING DAILY OF OHIO

TOLEDO, OHIO, DECEMBER 26, 1891.

The Bee trusts you all had a pleasant Christmas.

"Blaine is not a candidate" to-day—in the organs.

Quay, Platt, Dudley, Clarkson and Elkins—a savory quintet for a pious administration to tie to.

Perhaps the greatest provocation Mr. Mills has given for a mistrust of himself as leader of the democracy in the house is his unhappy conduct because of disappointment in the speakership contest.

When John Sherman opens headquarters at the Neil House in Columbus the boys expect to have a jolly time. Even the Foraker contingent will enjoy the melting attitude of His Chilliness from Mansfield.

"Peace on earth, good will to men." "Warlike preparations going on in Washington." These are side-by-side headlines in a newspaper. Not much balm of the millennium abroad in the air, except in the politeness of speech.

Mr. Griffin will hardly make a speech in the caucus in favor of his neighbr, Mr. Laylin, of Huron county. Perhaps our oratorical friend, Mr. Flickinger, will volunteer his services, or be drafted to perform the pleasant duty.

The resignation of Gas Trustee Brown has more significance than the phraseology of the letter to the Mayor indicates. Mr. Brown is disgusted with methods that are unbusinesslike and with a policy which if continued will certainly ruin the plant.

Eastern newspapers are busy explaining what "Our Chauncey" meant when he said "the Puritan fathers were cranks." He only meant they were "queer" and "set," while they were honest, strong and aggressive. It's all right anyhow; out this way a crank is better than a stupid or an echo.

The year goes out at the usual pace. Another horrible railroad accident, similar to the one which occurred in the tunnel near Toledo recently and with the same fatal results—caused by a brakeman's negligence. Is there no way to stem this tide of railway disaster? Is the public helpless in the face of such appalling and continual danger?

The United States has imported from England over a million pounds less of a certain grade of wool within the last year than it did the year before. And this represents the amount of shoddy we are wearing in certain grades of woolen clothes. The all-remedy hasn't yet affected our sheep industry. And wool is lower in price to producers. These are the blessings brought about by the high tariff.

We congratulate ourselves on the building of 4,168 miles of railroad in the United States within the year just ended. Perhaps it would be better for the country if the net work of lines already making patch-work of the lands in many of the states were conducted with sufficient care that to ride across country to pay a visit to a friend were not to take one's life in his hands.

Of course the republicans will not call their redistricting bill a gerrymander. It depends entirely upon what kind of spectacles a man wears whether a job of fixing the congressional districts shall be termed gerrymander. Democrats think the present arrangement is about right, but unfortunately the democrats are in the minority in the legislature and what they say "will not go" this winter.

It is currently reported that three members of the Hamilton county delegation are disposed to assert their independence of George Cox, who is Mr. Foraker's senatorial manager. It has long been a matter of wonder to citizens of other parts of Ohio why this man Cox exerts so much influence among Hamilton county republicans. He is their king and his word has been their law. Perhaps the threatened bolt is the first step toward his dethronement.

One of the questions of the hour in Chicago is, what shall be done with the smoke that threatens to stifle the inhabitants. A number of clubs in the city have joined in a crusade against the nuisance, one feature of which is to compel the use of hard coal in all possible places. The Herald says the law is all-sufficient now if it were enforced. The public at large is interested in the question to the extent of hoping the nuisance will be somewhat abated before the event of '93.

Christmas day has come and gone. We have exchanged presents and courtesies, have sung of peace and good-will, have feasted ourselves and our friends and now we take up the daily jog again, refreshed and encouraged, better, and in some respects, wiser than we were a year ago. This is the only compensation for growing old: we are continually learning something, and are like the old man in Saxe's poem, who wanted to be a boy again, but insisted upon being "a father too."

It is neither kind nor wise to speak slightingly, as is the fashion of some newspapers, of the "new men" in congress, in a country whose glory is in the rule of any and all of its citizens. The old member knows the ins and outs of Washington, and the tricks of debate and parliamentary zigzagging, perhaps, as the new man does not, but the new man who comes from an atmosphere outside of Washington and its environments may quite as well understand the needs of the country. The flings at "nascent statesmanship" are not in good taste.

Can Any City Afford It?

Chicago is a notable city in many ways. It is the workshop and metropolis of the west. It is to have the World's Fair, and its bank clearings exceeded those of any city in the country except New York. And yet from this great city, at this merry season, there comes a note of sadness. A dispatch from that city says 10,000 children are at work there for pay that is pitiably small. Can any city afford to pave any part of its way to greatness with the work of poorly paid child labor?—Kansas City Star.

Moves In the Wrong Direction.

"The resignation of Elkins is most gratifying," said it shows a great change in sentiment since the reign of terror under Garfield and Arthur. Who would have thought that in less than ten years the king of the star-routers would be called to the cabinet of Garfield and Arthur's first republican successor? Verily the world do move."—Gen. Thos. J. Brady, ex-Asst. Postmaster-General.

SOME MORE COMPLIMENTS.

The Toledo Bee has a new and magnificent home. The Bee is the ablest, cleanest and most reliable democratic paper in northern Ohio. It has the manliness to rebuke its own party or a party leader for wrong doing, and still be faithful to its trust as a democratic organ. We congratulate it on its prosperity and the democracy of Toledo and northwestern Ohio on having so able a representative in journalism.—Sandusky Register.

The Toledo Bee of last Saturday's issue was made up of 24 pages, containing among other interesting features an illustrated description of the interior of its new building. We are glad to note that the Bee is not only prosperous but also progressive.—Defiance Democrat.

Saturday the Toledo Bee issued a handsome 24 paged edition, fully illustrating the progress of that paper, and doing itself great credit. Long may it Bee.—Oak Harbor Press.

The Toledo Bee, in its issue of last Saturday, gave an excellently illustrated description of its new building and new improved machinery. Its new press has a capacity of 24,000 an hour. It also has ten new type setting machines, the latest invention in the printing business. The Bee is already a great paper and the democrats of the northwestern part of Ohio should be proud of it.—Champaign Democrat.

The Toledo Bee has moved into its own new building. The Bee is a remarkable, prosperous and successful paper, and is becoming better every day.—Hicksville News.

The Toledo Bee, last Saturday, was a mammoth number, comprising 24 pages. The Bee in the last year has greatly improved, and is now one of the best and most prosperous papers in the state.—Circleville Democrat.

Saturday's edition of the Toledo Bee was a handsome one, consisting of 24 pages of almost solid reading matter. One of the principal features was a complete write-up of the new Bee home basement to roof, accompanied by cuts of the various departments. There is no handsomer or better equipped newspaper office in Ohio. With all the luxurious conveniences of a modern office the Bee will continue as it always has been to be one of the leading newspapers in the state.—Fremont Messenger.

POLITICAL EDUCATION IN OHIO.

W. I. Squire, president of the Ohio republican state league, was one of the patriots who attended the secret meeting of officers of republican clubs in this city last Saturday. While here Mr. Squire made some remarks for publication which are reported by a republican contemporary as follows: "We have already begun the campaign of education in Ohio for the campaign of 1892. It is cheaper to educate voters than to buy them, and the results are far more satisfactory. By next July we will have half the young republicans of Ohio in uniform as marching clubs. It will be a regular military body and will make votes."

From this we may learn two or three things. For one we may learn that in the view of the chief of the Ohio league of the party of great moral ideas the only objections to buying voters are that it costs too much and that the results are not entirely satisfactory, for the reason, of course, that bought votes are slippery, and are as likely as not to go to another party next time. In the opinion of this light of the republican party there is no objection to buying votes as a great moral idea.

We may learn, for another thing, something about the republican great moral idea of educating voters. All you have to do is to organize them into clubs, put them through a military drill, provide them with a cheap uniform, a tin badge and a torch, and set them to marching and howling. If you want to store a young man's mind with information and lead him to a rational conviction on a great economic question such as the tariff all you have to do is to put him in the hands of a military drillmaster. If you wish to enlighten him on any important subject of statesmanship and public policy attach a tin label to his breast, give him a torch and send him yelling through the streets. In this way you educate him up to enlightened citizenship. That is another great moral idea.

Mr. Squire volunteers the information that "the democrats are doing nothing as yet for the fight next year." He means, no doubt, that they are not pursuing the republican method of education. They do not look upon the military drill-room as the best place to study political economy, and they do not think that questions of statesmanship can best be examined by torchlight in the public streets, with uniform linen dusters and tin platters for text books. They have other ideas of education, possibly as great and as moral as the republican Ohio idea.—Chicago Herald.

We Bored Rudyard.

Rudyard Kipling has been sick with his old fever in New Zealand, owing to a cold caught while boating in the moonlight at Wellington on his way to Australia. Information comes from the latter country that after his visit to Robert Louis Stevenson at Samoa he will go to India, and that he expects to be back in London in February or March. Kipling, interviewed in New Zealand, said that his great anxiety was to see new countries and people, and not to be bored with new buildings or products or manufactures, as he was in America.—London Dispatch.

In One Way or Another.

The Journal should indulge in no flattering delusion of hope regarding the McKinley tariff. It must "go." Whether it shall be modified by degrees or battered down in a general attack, is simply a question of ways and means. By one way or another, the stronghold of ultra-protection is doomed to fall.—Boston Globe.

Wanted—A National Hymn.

An American national hymn is certainly a desideratum. It would not detract from the respect freely accorded to "Yandee Doodle" and the other patriotic jingles of to-day to adopt a national hymn that would be worthy of the Republic.—Chicago Press.

And On Some Others, Also.

Charles A. Dana, of the New York Sun, makes the preposterous remark that it was the tariff issue that lost Ohio to the democrats. On the tariff question Dana is an unadulterated crank.—Mount Vernon Banner.

Drifting Up Salt River.

When Massachusetts gets into the habit of re-electing democratic governors, and Boston of re-electing democratic mayors, it is time for honest republicans to consider whither they are drifting.—Syracuse Courier.

Light on Wall Street Methods.

A great, white light is thrown on Wall street business methods by the published figures of the assignment of "Deacon" White—"nominal assets, $2,096,699; actual assets, $353,228."—Chicago Mail.

Igurd Ibsen, son of the famous writer, is to be the chief of a new state department of foreign affairs that Norway is about to establish independently of the Swedish department at Stockholm.

Charles Adolphus Murray, earl of Dunmore, is to be president of the Union bank of South Carolina and London, shortly to be established at Columbia, S. C., with $5,000,000 British capital.

William II., the new king of Wurtemberg, is a man of simple domestic tastes, with no liking for the cesspisy and gayety that characterized the court while the late king was alive. But Charlotte, the new queen, is only 27, and she may influence the king to furnish the people with entertainments.

MENTIONED ON THE STREETS.

That Toledo hotels set out a great spread yesterday.

That the divorce market has been unusually brisk the past year.

That the Methodist mission at Glassboro will be a go without a doubt.

That Mayor Emmick is already besieged with applicants for the gas trusteeship.

That next Monday night's session of the board of aldermen will be rather exciting.

That Representative Heller is between two fires, and is bound to be burned whichever way he moves. Another illustration of the saying, "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown."

That Joe Mentel has gone to Richmond for two weeks. His disappearance was rather sudden, and his friends anticipate that he will not return alone; in fact, there may be a girl in it.

That the members of the Toledo Republican club will cut a wide swath in the inauguration parade dressed McGinty-like, in their latest suit of clothes—plug hat, Mackintosh and cane.

That whatever way the cat jumps in the present senatorial scrimmage, it will inure to the benefit of the democrats in the future, which is the pleasant phase to those of the latter belief.

That Mayor Emmick and Judge Sala have quieted down greatly since Thursday and have resumed their usual unperturbed frame. They could not keep road over Chistmas; of course not.

That ex-Alderman Degnan will explore Ireland through and through on his trip, upon which he starts next week. He proposes to give a wide berth to the blarney stone, as he has quit running for alderman.

THE TOLEDO BOYS' HOME

An Institution to Help Make Good Citizens.

How the Boys Enjoyed Their Christmas.

How the Home is Managed and By Whom—Its Purpose and Good Work—A New Building Needed—Entertainment.

Two years ago last November a circle of King's Daughters of the First Congregational church conceived the idea of establishing a home for the homeless boys of our city. The Toledo Boys' Home is the outgrowth of this thought. It was first opened in the old Gen. Hunt, or Whitaker place (as it was often called) on Jefferson street. At present it is the neat two-story frame house, corner of Ontario and Washington streets. The house is too small to accommodate the boys who would gladly avail themselves of its privileges, and as the institution is now incorporated the managers have begun to raise funds for the purchase or building of permanent and sufficiently large headquarters.

The present officers of the home are: President, Mrs. C. H. Whitaker; vice-president, Mrs. Z. C. Pheatt; recording secretary, Mrs. John S. Kinnan; financial secretary, Mrs. C. G. Wilson; treasurer, Miss A. S. Bond.

Trustees—Mrs. J. B. Ketcham, Mrs. A. Bigelow, Mrs. H. M. Edson, Mrs. D. C. Le Baron, Mrs. Z. C. Pheatt, Mrs. C. S. Brown, Mrs. C. H. Whitaker, Mrs. R. Hallaren, Mrs. S. H. Ayers, Mrs. H. Wilhelm, Mrs. J. S. Kinnan, Mrs. C. G. Wilson, Mrs. Sarah C. Hitchcock, Mrs. D. C. Shaw, Mrs. T. F. Randolph, Miss A. S. Bond, Mrs. R. W. Barton, Mrs. J. R. Milburn, Mrs. W. G. Pierce, Mrs. H. B. Tillinghast, Mrs. G. W. Fague, Mrs. W. H. Cray, Mrs. M. M. Cronise, Mrs. Dr. E. M. Goodwin, Mrs. C. T. Lewis.

Nine committees further look after the affairs of the home, their duties designated by their titles: Finance committee, Mrs. C. S. Brown, chairman; on boys, Mrs. T. F. Randolph, chairman; on situations, Mrs. S. H. Ayers, chairman; on house, Mrs. R. W. Barton, chairman; on clothing, Mrs. H. B. Tillinghast, chairman; on school work, Mrs. T. F. Randolph, chairman; on Sunday exercises, Mrs. Z. C. Pheatt, chairman; on entertainment, Mrs. D. C. Le Baron; on employment, Mrs. H. M. Edson.

The Boys and the Rules.

The matron of the Home is Mrs. Kate F. Sites, who has held that place since May of this year, and whose warm interest in and understanding of her work has endeared her to the boys under her charge, and enables her to exercise over them that restraining influence which all boys of their age, whatever their circumstances, are better for feeling. The house is well looked after by Mrs. Ida Moore, housekeeper.

The boys are not as young as is the general impression. The present regular inmates range from 17 to 20 years. All are learning trades, and are ambitious to become skillful craftsmen or business men. While boot-blacks and newsboys are taken in at the Home, an effort is at once made to find them some other and more stable employment.

For their keeping the boys are charged $1.50 a week, 5 cents a meal, 5 cents for lodging, and 10 cents a week for their washing. The rule of the trustees is that a boy able to work will be kept only three days unless he gets work, but the trustees sometimes keep a boy longer, if they think the circumstances warrant it. In such case he is expected to pay his back board when he gets work. This is good discipline for him, and the confidence of the board is not often misplaced. In two instances of late where a boy did not secure work, the other boys have clubbed together and paid the board from their small means. This speaks volumes for what these boys are. Indeed, they are bright, self-respecting lads, and they strenuously object to being classed as "street gamin," which they are not in any sense of the word.

The first four evenings of the week there is a night school kept in which the common branches are taught. On Friday evenings there is an entertainment of some sort, recitations, or readings, or refreshments. Now and then some gentleman comes in to give the boys a talk on this evening. Occasionally Sunday school exercises are held.

To show how the boys avail themselves of the school privileges, it may be stated that two boys have learned all that is taught in the school, and one of them will now attend evening classes at the manual training school, while the other, who is a barber, will go to a commercial college and take the business course, working at his trade evenings and Saturday for money to pay his board.

The boys are fond of reading, and have a library of 50 volumes, presented by Mrs. Robinson Locke.

Christmas at the Home.

The following contributions were sent in to make Christmas joyous for the boys: Washington Street Sunday school, one barrel apples, one barrel potatoes; Mr. W. W. Ainsworth, pigs in clover, parlor croquet, two little conjurers, two parchesi go bang; Mr. Baumgardner, handkerchiefs; Roth & Freidman, mittens; Mrs. Silles, neckties, celluloid napkin rings; Mrs. J. Kinnan, two dozen bananas, nuts, handkerchiefs; Mrs. Lamson, rib beef roast; Mrs. Shaw, four dozen doughnuts; Mrs. Dr. Goodwin, two mince pies, four loaves bread, two quarts pickles, candies; Mrs. Barton, four cans tomatoes; Mrs. Corbert, books, guns; Mrs. Willcolm, two turkeys, pies; Mrs. Le Baron, two quarts cranberries; Mrs. Tillinghast, cake; Mrs. Eck, cake; Mrs. Squires, one dozen oranges; Mr. Powlesland, five quarts milk; Mrs. Lewis, candy, pickles, one can fruit, two cans salmon; Mrs. Ayres, two dozen bananas; Mrs. Whitaker, two quarts oysters.

On coming down to his breakfast yesterday morning each of the ten boys now in the Home found at his plate: One pair mitts, one red handkerchief, one white handkerchief, one cornucopia of candy, one necktie, one napkin ring.

At 1 o'clock they sat down to a Christmas dinner, and were served with turkey, cranberries, vegetables, mince pies, fancy cakes, fruits, oranges, etc., as good a dinner as boys' hearts could wish. A Bee looked in upon them at that hour, and found them discussing Prof. Hermann's magic feats, along with their dinner. It is needless to say they knew how these were done.

In the evening the boys had nuts and pop-corn, and games, and so rounded out one of the happiest Christmas days some of them have ever seen.

An Entertainment at the Home.

As before noted, the quarters of the Home are too small for the good this institution can do, and should do. Even now one of the sleeping cots has to be placed in the main hall. The energetic trustees see that true economy demands they own their headquarters, and they have set about raising a fund with which to purchase a home in the spring.

As a step to this end an entertainment will be given in Wheeler's opera house on Tuesday afternoon and evening. The program prepared is an excellent one, and the entertainment should be patronized by all citizens.

There will be a pantomime performance from "The Giant Picture Book"—"Cinderella," "Beauty and the Beast," and "Jack and the Bean Stalk." Between the acts Mrs. W. W. Ainsworth will sing, Mrs. Elizabeth Mansfield Irving will give a recitation, Misses Rose Clouse and Flora Fisk a piano duet, and Mrs. Hattie Wheeler's class will dance the minuet.

The trustees of the Home hope not only that their entertainment will be well attended, but that it will be remembered at all times that they can utilize contributions of clothing, food, etc.

WENT ABOUT DOING GOOD.

The Teachers and pupils of the Washington Street Congregational Church.

An entertainment was given at the Washington Street Congregational church Thursday evening which was both pleasant and beneficial. A program had been arranged and was carried out perfectly. The object was to provide for the poor a "Merry Christmas" and it was accomplished for each one brought a gift of some kind, potatoes, apples, or something, and the pulpit looked like a grocery after the donations had been received. Each class knew of a poor family and many of them delivered baskets on Thursday evening after the entertainment. Marion Lawrance planned the entire affair and success crowned his efforts. There were gifts from the following classes: James Raymer, Mrs. Fisher Miss Keough, Miss Demuth, W. E. Cratz, Mr. Young, Mr. Holden, Miss Holloway, Mrs. Crawford, Miss Lena Zoerb, Mr. Stahl, Miss Whitney, Mrs. Sprague, Mrs. Van Loo, Mr. Moore, Mrs. Warn, E. H. Notes and Comments on Incidents Occurring Daily—Prepared for Readers Who are Hustled for Time.

SKIPPED OUT.

Carrie Walls, who runs a saloon on the corner of Water and Locust streets, reports that her bar tender, named Sheldon, left suddenly last night and took with him $5.85 of her money and a valise belonging to one of her boarders. Sheldon has not yet been located by the police.

ANOTHER SUIT AGAINST THE LAKE SHORE.

Gus Arnds has filed a suit in the common pleas court against the Lake Shore railroad for $10,000 damages for personal injuries. Arnds was a switchman on that road and on the 27th of last April his left hand was badly crushed while coupling cars.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVITIES.

Toledo gave itself over to the fullest enjoyment yesterday, and our people observed the day in forms to suit themselves. As noted in Thursday's issue, there were appropriate exercises at the churches and public institutions; there were family reunions and dinners, balls and parties; the benevolently inclined sought out worthy objects and contributed to their happiness, and on the whole the day was made a glad one in every respect.

MIAMI DIVISION INVITED.

Lieut. J. D. Wiggins, of Miami Division, U. R., K. P., has received an invitation from the committee on arrangements to participate in the inaugural parade at Columbus on the 11th of January. He has called a meeting of the Division for next Wednesday evening to act in the matter. With the Cadets, Miami Division, Ed Pixley's young lady cadets, and the militia companies in the parade, Toledo could make an exhibition of which all citizens would be proud.

PROBABLY LOST HIS MONEY.

The case of highway robbery mentioned in Thursday's Bee, did not amount to much when a hearing was held in police court this morning. Jerry Donohue, the old man who claimed to have been robbed, could not tell a very straight story. He had been drinking, he did not know how much money he had or how much he lost, neither could he tell just what the two fellows did at the time he said they robbed him.

The defendants, Wm. Louis and Francis Sullivan, told a straight story and were discharged.

LUCKY GUESSERS.

In the Cawood watch contest the six watches were won by the following: Ladies—Best guess, 13 hours, 11 minutes, 0 seconds, Miss R. Doyle, 238 Illinois street; second best guess, 13 hours, 11 minutes, 1 second, Miss Louise Brand, 402 Williams street; third, 13 hours, 10 minutes, 18 seconds, Emery P. Willey, 127 Summit. Gentlemen—Best guess, 12 hours, 37 minutes, 34 seconds, Mr. A. T. Ledley, 419 East Broadway; second best, 12 hours, 38 minutes, 20 seconds, C. A. Lucie; second, 12 hours, 40 minutes, 10 seconds, J. H. Spitler, Law building.

PETTY STEALING.

Charles Brown was arraigned in police court this morning charged with stealing a horse blanket on Tuesday, belonging to Mrs. Caroline Marx. He told the old story of getting it from a man on the street, but it did not go down and he received a sentence of $15 and costs and 30 days.

Considerable of this petty thieving is going on and giving the police much trouble. There are now under arrest at the central police station, Thomas Stinson, for stealing an umbrella and a night shirt; M. J. Leary, for snatching a pair of shoes from in front of a second-hand store on the corner of Perry and St. Clair streets.

SOCIAL PURITY MEETING.

At the Central Congregational church on Sunday evening Miss Jennie L. Olmstead will deliver an address on "Social Purity," on the request of the W. C. T. Unions of Toledo. Miss Olmstead, who is state superintendent of the Social Purity department work of the W. C. T. U., is a talented young woman and an eloquent speaker. Her entire time is devoted to the cause for which she will speak, and those who attend the meeting cannot fail of receiving benefit therefrom. It is hoped the attendance will be good and that men as well as women will indorse by their presence the demand for "an equal standard of morals."

THE COURT OF CHRISTMAS.

Next Monday evening at Weber's hall the Sunday school of the Second Baptist church in East Toledo will give "The Court of Christmas," and during the entertainment thirty-four scholars will be presented with gold medals for perfect attendance during the past year. The program follows:

Part 1.—The Court Reception.

Part 2.—Spring—Scene 1:—Sunbeams; scene 2:—May Day.

Part 3.—Summer—Scene 1:—Fourth of July.

Part 4.—Autumn—Scene 1:—Thanksgiving; scene 2:—Moonbeams.

Part 5.—Winter—Scene 1:—Christmas Eve.

GETTING INTERESTING.

The Cleveland Leader of this morning has the following paragraph in its Columbus special, which will show something of the harmony prevailing in the republican ranks:

"Representative Griffin of Lucas county finds himself the subject of a good deal of ridicule on account of his cock and bull story about a man coming to his house in the middle of the night to offer him two thousand dollars to vote for Sherman. People in Toledo are very curious to know why Mr. Griffin did not swear out a warrant for his arrest. The Sherman men regard the story as an effort to create a scandal in which to involve the senator and all his friends, but the effort was so weak and everything was blown over so quickly that Mr. Griffin is the cause of a great deal of laughter."

AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

St. Paul's Episcopal church, East Side, is beautifully decorated for this holiday season, and appropriate services are being held. On Tuesday afternoon next the Sunday school children will come over in a body to attend the choral services at Trinity. Tuesday evening the Christmas tree for St. Paul's children will be loaded with figs, which will be distributed by the ladies of the guild and their assistants. This will be one of the last occasions where Rector and Mrs. Smythe will meet with this congregation, as they leave for their new home in Mount Vernon next week. They will carry with them the esteem and hearty good wishes not only of the parishioners of St. Paul, but of every one who has become acquainted with them in the city. On Wednesday evening last the St. Andrew's society, the Ladies' Guild and the choir of St. Paul's presented to Rector Smythe a beautiful onyx cloak, and to Mrs. Smythe a set of solid silver butter plates.

J. K. EMMETT PROFFERS AID.

Mr. W. O. Brown, jr., has received a telegram from Mr. J. K. Emmett, which shows something of the spirit possessed by the actor. It will be remembered that Mr. and Mrs. James were injured in the wreck at the Lake Shore tunnel some weeks since, from the effects of which Mr. James died. Mrs. James is improving, and will be able to leave the hospital in about a week. Fortunately the wants of the lady are provided for, but the proffered help loses none of its force on this account. The telegram was as follows:

"W. O. Brown, jr.: Find Mrs. George James, whose husband died from the railroad accident. Look for her in the hospitals. If she is in need, wire me.

"J. K. EMMETT."

THE BANQUET TO-NIGHT.

The Lucas County Bar association will banquet to-night at the Boody. The necessary arrangements have been made by Harvey Scribner, Judge Pike, Carl Beckham and Col. Bunker. Judge Haynes will be toast master, and the following responses will respond to the toasts assigned them:

CHRISTMAS, 1891.

Through the still splendor of the Orient night,
To shepherds watching, waiting, on their plains afar,
Breaks the glad rapture of the Angel Song,
Shines the calm radiance of the wondrous Star.

"Glory to God on High!"
Sing the bright, joyous throng,
While countless hosts prolong
Ceaseless and echoed song,
"Glory to God on High!
Peace and Good-will!
God's Peace to Earth from Heaven
This day with His Son is given.
Glory to God on High!
Peace and Good-will to men!"
And the Star, leading them,
Led to the Christ.

Through the sad mists of the world's dreary waiting,
Down the fierce ages of tumult and war,
Through fear and confusion and deadliest hating,
Still sounds the Angels' Song, still beams the Star.

"Glory to God on High!"
Still sing the heavenly throng,
While priest and choir prolong,
In measured chant the song,
"Glory to God on High!
Peace and Good-will to men!
God's Peace to Earth from Heaven
This day with His Son is given.
Glory to God on High!
Peace and Good-will!"
And the Star, leading still,
Led to the Christ.

Where now is the world's high noontide bright?
Men halt, and doubt, and question, and bewail,
Dazed by keen splendors of the bounteous light,
Or, drunk with achievement, pose as gods, and fail
Of all the promised Peace and Rest;
Or, reaching, reach too far;
Or, searching for the Good, ignore the Best.

Still, like the sure tide, throbs that song,
Still through the glare serenely shines the Star.
While chant the heavenly throng,
And thankful hearts prolong
Round all the Earth the song,
"Glory to God on High!
Peace and Good-will to men!
God's Peace to Earth from Heaven
To-day through His son is given,
Glory to God on High!
Peace and Good-will!"
And the Star, leading still,
Leads to the Christ.

POSSIBLE MURDER.

A Toledo Salesman Suddenly Disappears.

Evidence of Foul Play—Friends Find His Hat—He Disappears from a Blissfield, Mich., Hotel—Results of an Investigation.

What may possibly result in the discovery of a foul murder comes to light in this city to-day. The evidence points that way, though the motive is totally lacking.

A week ago last Tuesday John J. Fallon, residing at 206 Indiana avenue, and employed as a traveling salesman by Arbuckle & Ryan, Monroe street, left for a week's trip through western Michigan. He reached Palmyra all right, and on Wednesday reported at Blissfield. He spent Wednesday evening with three other salesmen very pleasantly. The three friends left that night, and after they had gone he took his hat and stepped outside the door. This was the last seen of him. His satchel and overcoat remained in the hotel.

When he did not return home Saturday night, as was his custom, his friends here attributed it to the bad condition of the roads, but when nothing was heard from him on Sunday or Monday, his relatives became anxious, as did also his employers.

Arbuckle & Ryan telephoned to the various points, and were told the facts as given above from the hotel keeper at Blissfield. The firm thereupon sent a man to Blissfield to investigate and report. He returned yesterday with Fallon's overcoat and satchel, but no further information than that his (Fallon's) hat was picked up on the bank of the river last Sunday. The hat was a new one purchased from Harley and had Fallon's name in it.

The general belief in Blissfield is that the missing man has met with foul play. He was a sober, hard working young man, never drank, gambled or made an enemy. His relations with the firm were of the friendliest, and he had just been re-engaged for another year. They have no reason to suppose that anything could induce him to willingly part with life. His family relations were the pleasantest. He was a devoted husband and affectionate father, and was moreover widely popular, not only here in Toledo, where he had hosts of friends, but was a prime favorite on the road among his traveling brethren.

The mystery is therefore a deep one. He had no enemy that any of his friends here was aware of. He complained of being sick the day before he left Toledo, and told the hotel keeper at Blissfield that he was feeling a little unwell. He said that instead of going on to Weston, as he intended, he would return home unless he felt better.

In wedlock's haven they had been
A goodly season corralled,
And scarce a week of it they'd seen
When they'd not fiercely quarrelled.

And tho' the venom of his soul
His lips but rarely uttered,
One day its volume did uproll
And savagely he muttered—

"The devil take you!" being by
Her manner rather harried;
Composedly she made reply—
"He did when I got married."

The scornful farmer promised, and returned at the end of the week with the humble confession that Mr. Gibson was right.

ABOUT JANUARY WEATHER

Prof. Foster Starts Off the Coming Year

With a Continuation of the Soft Weather.

A Word to the People Who Refer to Weather Forecasters as Prophets—Planetary Meteorological Information.

Copyrighted, 1891, by W. T. Foster.

St. Joseph, Mo., Dec. 26.—My last letter gave forecasts of two storm waves, one to cross the continent from the 21st to 25th, and the other from 27th to 31st.

We now come to deal with January weather. The most interesting weather events of the month will occur after the 15th, when some of the worst winter storms of recent years will occur. The last days of January will not soon be forgotten by those who live in the western part of the great valleys, for a notable blizzard will visit that section not far from the 28th.

The first part of January promises average weather. A storm wave will be due to reach our Pacific coast about January 1. It will cross the Rocky mountains about the 2nd, the great central valleys from 3d to 5th, and reach the Atlantic coast about the 6th.

This storm will become very fierce east of the Alleghenies about the 6th, and the gales on the lakes and the Atlantic will become very dangerous to shipping.

It will probably take a northern route, causing quite warm weather in all the southern states during its journey across the continent, and the cold wave following it will not be severe in the western part of the great valleys, but in Canada and on the great lakes the cold wave will be quite severe.

The cold wave following the storm will cross the Rockies about the 3d or 4th, the great valleys about the 5th or 6th, and on the 6th will reach the great northern lakes, causing at least a light blizzard. This high barometer will continue at considerable force as it moves onto the Atlantic on the 7th, following the path of the low.

The southern states will get some rain from this storm but the disturbance will not greatly affect that section and the precipitation will incline toward high elevations.

Weather Prophets.

The world persists in calling them "weather prophets," and I do not care if it does. The term is a misnomer, for there is no prophecy about foretelling the weather. When the foretelling of events is based upon known facts it ceases to be prophecy and becomes a scientific or mathematical calculation. Prophecy comes by revelation from the supreme power, forecasts of the weather by calculating and reasoning from cause to effect. True prophecy cannot err, because the supreme power cannot err, and without a revelation from the supreme power there can be no prophecy. But forecasts of the weather always contain more or less errors, and the weather prophet who gives the most details in forecasting the weather and makes the least number of mistakes, only demonstrates that he reasons from the right cause to the right effect and proves his skill as a mathematician.

These statements of facts prove that Professors Tice, Mansill, Blake, Hicks, Lillingston, Smith, Cather and others are not weather prophets but meteorologists, entitled to the prefix "Professor," because they are teaching a branch of learning, this being one of the definitions given by Webster.

The two appellations, "Prophet" and "Professor," do not belong together. No one ever heard of a prophet being called "Professor." But the term "weather prophet" appears to have come to stay and therefore we may accept it under protest. I want to talk about weather prophets.

Professor Tice of St. Louis, was the original discoverer of that upon which electrical meteorology is founded. He combatted the heat theory of force and declared that electricity is the motive power of the universe. He discovered the periods of four principal storm waves and attributed their cause to an inner mercurial planet called Vulcan. He was right as to the principal storm wave periods, but his theory about Vulcan is a very doubtful one.

Professor Tice, in his new system of meteorology, gave to each planet four points in its revolution around the sun at which it caused general electrical disturbances throughout the solar system. In this he was mistaken as to all planets except Uranus, Saturn, Jupiter and Earth. He was certainly in error as to Mars, Venus, Mercury, and perhaps Vulcan. He also believed that the four points around the sun called heliocentric longitude 80, 170, 260 and 350 were the fixed disturbing points for all the planets and this was a very serious error because this is not in accord with astronomical events.

The effects of the moon on our weather was entirely unknown to Professor Tice. He seems never to have applied his theory of planetary influences to the moon, perhaps because that orb rotates so slowly on its axis always keeping the same side to the earth. He made no effort in his general forecasts to locate the storm centers but gave the dates on which he supposed the planetary equinoxes would affect the weather of the whole earth.

Professor Tice discovered the relations of the transitory high and low barometers to each other and to the weather, and the United States weather bureau appropriated his discovery without giving him credit for it.

Of all the meteorologists now dead Professor Tice deserves to be recognized as the greatest, for he pointed out the establishment of the only true system of meteorology.

Professor Mansill, of Rock Island, Ill., was the first, perhaps, to lay down a system of meteorology based on planetary influences, and while there is much truth in his system he only deals with the minor and less important influences of the planets. He recognizes the influences of gravity or magnetism affected by conjunctions, perihelions and perizees as being the causes of our greatest electrical disturbances, but does not recognize the influences of equinoxes. This clearly shows the difference between the Mansill and the Tice systems. They were each based upon two distinct electrical theories, the principal idea of one being being the equinoxes and of the other conjunctions.

Professor Blake, of Topeka, Ks., is uncommunicative as to his theories, but a long and careful study of his writings has revealed the basis of his calculations. He does not wait for conjunctions and equinoxes, but calculates the influence of the sun moon and planets on the electrical currents, the waters and the atmosphere of the earth at all times.

He believes that every particle of matter and every heavenly body is impelled toward every other with an equal force at all times, varied only by distance and mass. He takes no account of conjunctions except the doubled influence of two or more bodies when situated near each other, and thus increasing their attraction of gravitation or the repulsive power of the surrounding elements as he would call it. He does not believe in attraction, but declares that gravitation is repulsion.

Prof. Cather, of Ashville, Ala., based all his calculations on the effects of the moon. He claimed that the weather is similar every twenty-eight days, basing the idea on the distance of the moon north or south of the earth's equator. He claimed that as the moon reaches the same latitude, going north or south, it will have the same effect on the weather that it did twenty-eight days before, when it was at the same latitude and going in the same direction. He made allowance for the seasons, but gave no influence to the planets.

These are the four systems of meteorology. Smith of Canada, follows Mansill and also includes the conduct of animals and recurring periods of weather changes as taught by Vennor. Prof. Hicks, of St. Louis, follows Prof. Tice, and has not improved on his old methods. Hicks also uses the Herschell theory of the effect of moon changes on the weather. Prof. Lillingston follows Tice.

I have carefully studied all these theories, have tested them by the records of the Washington weather bureau, and find some truth in each of the four systems. I have taken those parts of Professors Tice, Mansill, Blake and Cather's systems that stand the tests of the records and with what I have been able to discover, have formed the electrical system of meteorology. I include nothing in this system that is not in harmony with the laws of electricity and magnetism, nothing that will not bear investigation in the light of the weather records of this and all other countries.

FULTON COUNTY FACTS.

Splendid New Block Ready for Occupancy.

Social and Personal Gossip—The Senatorial Situation Discussed in Brief.

Fayette, O., Dec. 26.—(Special)—The new block is nearly finished and already it is being occupied for business. Geo. Ashelman has opened up a variety store in the corner. The front of the middle room will be occupied by Lambertson & Trunpour, barbers. The east building will be used by Jones, the butcher. It is a very neat addition to the town.

Dr. Van Buskirk and family have returned from a three month's visit among eastern friends. The doctor has a warm place in the hearts of the people of Fayette and vicinity, and they are glad to see him improved in health.

Henry Lindersmith, Lyman Harrison and Charley Hubbard, students of the medical college at Detroit, and Geo. Allen, fro the Case school of Cleveland, are home for the holidays.

Dr. Backus has purchased the old Emerick homestead on East Main street, and has settled among us for the practice of his profession. The doctor is one of our old Normal students, and is a graduate from Ann Arbor. His wife is also a physician, having graduated from the same school, and will also practice medicine. They met a hearty welcome here.

T. C. Lester, of northwestern Gorham, was buried yesterday. He was an old and respected citizen, whose strength of mind and integrity of character was acknowledged by all. He had been afflicted with asthma for many years, which complicated with many other painful ailments had made him a great sufferer. His funeral was conducted by the Odd Fellows.

The unpropitious weather and the terrible condition of the roads has made it rather hard for people to make the usual preparations for Christmas, but there was quite a hustling about and the presents seem to be so distributed that all get something.

Mr. Ely, the representative elect from this county, seems to think that the choice of his constituents is for Foraker for senator. Wonder if he has made much of a canvass of the matter? It looks as though he got his ideas from a few "leaders" at the county seat. In this immediate neighborhood, at least, the sentiment is strongly for Sherman, and if a canvass of Fulton county was taken two-thirds if not three-fourth of the republicans would signify their preference for Sherman. But the republicans would show wisdom by dropping them both and putting in a new man. Let the office seek the man. But we are not "in it."

MOTHERS! MOTHERS! MOTHERS!

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

PURIFIED BY ELECTRICITY.

The Mysterious Fluid as a Sanitary Helpmate.

The Webster method of purifying waste water by means of electricity has been tested by Dr. Fermi in the Hygienic institute, at Munich, Germany. During the course of experiments it was found that the water became purified in about fifteen minutes, the organic substances being reduced by one-half, and the suspended substances being precipitated to the bottom. The smell of the water was perceptibly improved.

While the results of the tests show that electricity does not at the present time realize the ideal of water purification, it has two great advantages; first, that very little iron is precipitated and its removal is not so difficult as in the case of purification by chemical means, and, second, the dissolved organic substances, which are not precipitated by any of the known chemical methods hitherto employed, are at least partially removed by the electric current.

SECRETARY AND OFFICES OF COMPANY.

W. H. MOLLETT, - - 12 Moorgate Street, London, E. C.

All the ordinary (common stock) shares of the company will be allotted to the vendors and others, and none are offered for subscription or sale.

The eight per cent preference shares and £35,000 of the six per cent. debenture bonds are offered to the public for subscription at par, payable twenty-five per cent. thereof on application, and the balance within five days after allotment.

The subscription lists in America will open December 21st, at 10 a. m., and close December 28th, 1891, at 3 p. m. Allotments will be made as soon as practicable thereafter. The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions, and to make allotments of less amounts than the amounts applied for. If the whole amount applied for by any applicant be not allotted, the surplus amount paid on deposit will be appropriated toward the sum due on allotment. If no allotment should be made, the deposit will be returned in full.

Prospectuses and subscription forms can be had at the offices of the attorneys and bankers where subscriptions will be received.

The English company will acquire the title to all property, assets and effects of the present prosperous Buckeye Brewing Company, including the good-will, and trade-marks of the business. The business has been established for thirty years, and is well and favorably known throughout the state of Ohio.

The progressive character of the business can be judged from the sales of beer during the last five years, which have been as follows:

Year ending August 31:
1886	50,853 Barrels.
1887	56,482 "
1888	61,628 "
1889	62,630 "
1890	63,908 "
1891 (nearly)	74,000 "

The profits likewise show a steady increase year by year. Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., of London and New York, Chartered Accountants, have examined the books of the Brewery and certify as follows:

44 Gresham Street,
London, E. C., 27th July, 1891.
Buckeye Brewery.

We have examined the books of this Brewery at Toledo Ohio, U. S. A., for the period of four years ending 1st September, 1890, for the purpose of ascertaining the profits earned during that period. The profits, after charging depreciation, but without charging the salary of the president, were as follows:

Year ending August 31:
1887	$ 74,014
1888	99,742
1889	113,059
1890	134,285

(Signed)
PRICE, WATERHOUSE & CO.

Taking the net profits of the business to equal about $130,000 there would be an ample surplus after paying the interest on the bonds and the dividend upon the preference shares to provide for expenses of management and the dividends on the ordinary (common stock) shares.

1. To pay interest on the debenture bonds would require $26,352
2. To pay dividends of 8 per cent. on preference shares.. 33,184
3. Leaving an estimated surplus per annum of..... 70,464

$130,000

The directors believe that this very large surplus will increase with the development of the business, and that the future profits will enable the company to declare substantial dividends upon its ordinary (common stock) shares, besides affording ample protection to the holders of the cumulative preference shares against any contingencies of business that can be foreseen.

Mr. Dennis Coghlin and Mr. George E. Pomeroy, of Toledo, who, for five years last past, have had the active management and control of the business, and, as such, have built up the trade to its present large dimensions, have agreed to act as managers of the business on behalf of the English company for the period of five years at the salary of $4,000 per annum, as heretofore paid to them, and such further sum as the company may vote them in each year. Mr. Jacobi has also agreed to act as superintendent for the period of three years at the same salary. The directors are, therefore, confident that the business will be conducted with the energy, ability and integrity that has characterized the management in the past, and that the managers will do their utmost to further develop and increase the business for the benefit of the English company.

The business will be acquired by the English company as of the first day of September, 1891, and all profits made since that date will belong to the new company, less interest on the purchase-money.

The vendor, H. W. Easun, has fixed the price to be paid for the premises, property, assets, effects and good-will at the sum of £260,000 sterling with interest.

A contract has been entered into between H. W. Easun, as vendor, and the company, dated London, December 10, 1891. There are various contracts entered into with reference to guaranteeing the subscription of a portion of the present issue, to which the company is not a party. There are also various contracts connected with the brewery as a going concern, which it is impracticable to specify in detail. As some or all of the above contracts and arrangements may come within the category of contracts referred to in the 38th section of the Companies' Acts, 1867, applications for shares will be received only upon the footing that applicants have notice of such contracts and arrangements and will waive the specification herein of the dates and names of the parties thereto, and any further information in regard thereto to which they may be entitled under the provisions of the said section or otherwise.

Applications for preference shares and debentures should be

HE KNOWETH BEST.

I wanted something. O so much!
So near it came, within my touch
My heart's desire—when far away
'Twas drawn, and seemed a voice to say:
"There let it rest,
God knoweth best."

Like children, crying for the moon,
I longed for this one priceless boon,
I wanted it within my hand
Even then. How could I patient stand
And let it rest?
Does He know best?

Then He who calmed the stormy sea
Came near to soothe and quiet me.
And to my longing, restless will
He gently whispered: "Peace! be still."
I let it rest,
God knoweth best.

SACRED IN MEMORY.

(E. Lilian Green, died Oct. 12th, 1891, aged 23 years.)

Little hands so thin and white
Fold yourselves, the strife is o'er;
Little head in slumbers laid,
Sleep, and wake no more.

Peace; the tired heart may rest
Quiet now on mother's breast;
Sleep in dream-land; it is best,
Dream-land ever more.

Peace, I would not now dissever
Thee from thy sweet dreams;
Call thee back to earth-land ever
From the sleep which seems
Like the gentle soothing rain
On the parching plain.

Mother, sister, ye who walked
By her side so faithfully,
Till ye heard the sullen roar
Of the outer sea;
Think not she would ever be
Eager to return to yet
Who in blest eternity
Is happy; let her be.

But the quiet bosom cover
With her chosen flowers;
Faithful hearts shall ever love her
Through the coming hours;
Love her for the pain, and strife
Of her little life.

May this loved Poet often bring
Rich consolation to thy burdened heart,
As he in hope doth sweetly sing
The joy and peace which faith and trust impart.

Which brightly cometh after cloud and storm,
And lengthened life yield blessings sweet and rare,
To cheer the heart so tried, so true and warm.

The Skirt Question.

There is a possibility that in the Austrian empire the question of short skirts or trains for street wear will be settled by law or by imperial edict, whichever is the way over there of saying "you must." It is gravely announced over the cables that "the wearing in the streets of Vienna of sweeping petticoats by women will be prohibited in the near future."

Absurd as it seems to think of the length or the shortness of petticoats being a matter for governmental interference, and that the importance of it is sufficient to warrant a cablegram announcement, it might be worse. A great many points of dress are regulated by royal decree in countries that have kings and queens and emperors and empresses and such like at their head. The very low-neck etiquet of court dress for Queen Victoria's receptions is an instance, and an instance, too, of how foolish such things can be. So it is better to hear that the ladies of Vienna are to be regulated out of sweeping petticoats than it would be to hear they were going to be regulated into them.

In this country, where every woman is a queen in her own right, unless she voluntarily puts on fashion's shackles, the question of long or short skirts for the street will be settled by individual taste. It is good to note that the general determination of our women is not to turn themselves into street sweepers.

Many a preachment on the subject has this department of the Bee contained, and what has been said will be reiterated in one form or another, so long as is seen on our streets, as was seen one day this week, a couple inches of dress skirt dragging along a dirty sidewalk, over mud, through refuse of tobacco ends and other filth.

The time will come when no woman with the instincts of a lady will so make a scaveuger of herself. The more the refined woman thinks upon the question the firmer she becomes in this opinion, and the more determined to be herself an object lesson in the right direction.

Single Homes.

"The girl bachelor" is the name given by a Boston writer to the single women whose earnings permit them to indulge in home-keeping to a greater or less extent. The suite of rooms with dainty furnishings, and facilities for arranging for a tete-a-tete cup o' tea with a friend or two, is what converts the ordinary "boarder" into the "girl bachelor." One might confess she doesn't like the title at all. There is nothing bachelor-like about her self-created home nest, it is maiden-like from the drop of the window lace to the polish on the tin basins all a-row.

There are a few things in the world a man absolutely cannot do; he cannot, unaided, make a bony spot out of his apartments or his club rooms. This is the rule, but even as this is written comes to mind one who is an exception. He does his own fancy work, and it is of the choicest and tastiest variety; and he takes care of his own room, because he doesn't like a careless maid to be dusting his bric-a-brac. He is a man of affairs too, no masculine pussy-cat.

But the majority of men cannot and will not make a home, as it is best understood, without a woman's help. A man is more fortunate, provided she can earn money, or has it without at first to keep up her establishment, of so, so tiny and modest, or ornate for pretentious. And it is well this is true, perforce, some women must live single lives, and it is a blessed thing they are able to make so great a success of it, and are improving and moving to a higher plane continually. With better opportunities come self-support, independence, and in a degree (not yet what it should be) more fairness in the distribution of wage money.

In Great Britain the "left over" girls, as one writer calls them, are now 1,000,000; in Germany, 1,000,000; in Sweden and Norway, 250,000, in Austria-Hungary, 600,000, and in Denmark, 60,000. In the United States there are more men than women, though they are very unevenly distributed.

Human nature is doubtless, about as the creator designed. The majority of men and women prefer to build homes in partnership. This not being always possible, it is best they should learn to build alone, and the "girl bachelor" deserves encouragement and commendation for her effort and success.

Women in Turkey.

Perhaps some of us were a bit startled to hear Edwin Arnold say in his talk from the platform preliminary to his readings, in Toledo—that, next to the women of the United States, the women of Turkey were the most fortunate in the world. Olive Harper writes of their life in the current number of Frank Leslie's, and her descriptions seem not to bear out Sir Edwin's assertion:

The Turkish women are sensitive and full of a rather exaggerated sensibility, which causes them to shed tears and faint on the slightest provocation. "Nerves," as we have them, they don't seem to know, but they are ready to keel over in a faint for almost nothing. Whether this is natural to them, or induced by their lack of exercise and constant bathing in such boiling hot water I cannot tell. They sit or lie about all day unwashed and most slovenly, unless they expect visitors, or are going out, until 6 o'clock, when their husband may possibly pay them a visit, and so toward evening they let their slaves brush them up and decorate them.

Once in a while there will be a desperate quarrel in the harem, and then the eunich has the authority to whip the offenders. Imagine fifteen or twenty women shut in one house—one room almost—all having an equal claim upon the master; give them nothing useful to do; stuff them all day long with sweets, nuts, fruit and rich food; oblige them to huddle close around the little brasier, or mangal, in winter, to keep from freezing, with half a dozen or more different broods of children to manage, and we have one reason why the peace-loving Turk goes into his harem so seldom.

The Turkish woman's garments are all of the most brilliant and showy pattern, and they wear trousers of gayly flowered chintz which reach to their ankles, and are never of gauze, as some seem to believe. Above the trousers they wear a petticoat, made of four breadths of material not sewn together, and each a yard and a half or two yards long. In the street these are tucked up, but left to train in the house. Next comes a chemise of Broussa crepe with long sleeves and V-shaped neck. No corsets are worn. A jacket made of silk or velvet, and richly embroidered in gold thread, pearls, turquoise and coral beads. This is very low in the neck, and buttons around the waist with three small buttons, leaving the entire bust exposed, with the exception of the doubtful protection of the transparent crepe chemise and the rows of brilliantly colored necklaces. A shawl is folded on the bias, and wound around the waist tightly, which holds up the trousers and shalvar, but makes a clumsy-looking wad.

This is the national house dress. When going out, a long, shapeless cloak with wide sleeves and a wide flap hanging down the back, and the veil, with a brilliant-hued parasol, completes the street attire. At night, summer and winter, a wadded nightgown is worn, generally outside the clothes worn during the day.

Only a few families have bedsteads, preferring to sleep on the pile of twenty or thirty quilts on the floor. Each wife has her suite of three rooms, and sleeps there with her children and personal servants; and no matter how hot the night, the windows are tightly closed.

The law of the Koran allows no woman to make a sign of her existence to her husband between the hours of sunrise and sunset, so he is at peace to attend to his business in his own part of the house; but it is pretty hard on the women. How weary they get, how their hearts chafe under this unnatural condition, none outside can know.

CHRISTMAS GARLANDS.

O ye poets of this Household your Christmas garlands bring,
To cheer the weak and suffering who cannot rise to sing;
And some are dead, who sang for us, in memory we strew,
Garlands for those who sing the songs in Paradise anew;
And some in distant lands their songs are singing to the world,
Garland for them wherever Christ's banner is unfurled.
For those who still are with us and comforted as long—
We wish them joy and beauty in every word of song—
Garlands for every household festooned gracefully
Under arches, over the doors twining daintily;
Garlands to deck the temples for the King Emanuel,
Who came down among the lowliest on this earth to dwell.
Garlands; send the fragrant garlands everywhere on earth,
To celebrate his coming and commemorate his birth.

Holiday Shoppers.

The very word Christmas sends a thrill through our being, a thrill of joy or one of sadness. To thousands it brings visions of well-filled stockings, supplied from a well filled purse, while to many thousands more it means only a day of festivity and merry-making in which they, on account of their poverty and misery, can have no share.

In walking down the streets we see the shop windows gaily decorated and the Christmas goods set forth in most tempting array, where they will be most likely to attract the notice of the passer-by.

For those who have the leisure for it, what fund of entertainment there is in watching the Christmas shoppers. Here we see a fond mother fairly loaded down with toys and playthings for the little ones. What a generous supply of mother love will accompany each one of these gifts. Here a gray haired old farmer is much interested in the purchase of a warm dress or shawl for the good wife at home. This will make her heart glad, for it will prove to her that all the love and romance has not faded from their lives. Here a young man, looking strangely out of place and ill at ease in the midst of all the fuss and finery, is trying to find something for a possible sweetheart. It seems to be a hard task for him, but it is such trials as these that go to prove the strength of his love. Here is a group of laughing, chattering girls, and at one glance we know that some ones best young man is to have a remembrance; it may be a pair of slippers too beautiful to wear, or a dainty combination of lace and silk for his handkerchief, the workings of which are so complicated that a handkerchief once placed within is lost forever; or perhaps a match safe that refuses to open, or a tobacco pouch that refuses to close.

But no matter what the purchase or who the purchaser, all are intent upon the matter in hand and all are happy and animated; rarely do we find a sour or discontented face, and when we do it only makes the contrast more noticeable. And should not this be so? Is not this the season of Peace and Good Will to all mankind?

If we but notice, what a variety of feelings prompt the giving of these holiday remembrances. There are those who give because it is expected of them, those that give because they wish for something in return, and lastly, those that give because their hearts are so full of love and this is one of the few ways in which it can find practical expression. In this latter class is embodied the true spirit of giving, for a most essential accompaniment to all gifts is love—love for the recipient. With it the very smallest thing might prove acceptable, where without it a most elegant gift would be cast off in disdain.

Retrospect and Forecast.

Another Christmas tide passes on to the eternities and again old Father Time appears before us, that we render an account of our stewardship for another year, have we done much or little? Ill or well? How shall we answer? Oh, how beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of those who walk uprightly. Have we thus walked? Have we fed the hungry, and helped to make the needy comfortable? Have we been ready to lend a hand in hour of trouble or distress, unto our neighbor? Have we visited the sick, carrying a ray of sunshine in our words and actions as we stood beside them, or did we wait until the death damp settled on their brow before we became interested in their needs?

Let us bring this retrospection closer yet. Have we been contented with our blessings, or have we skipped them by and never stopped to number them? There is a goodly list for most of us: life, health, pleasant surroundings; we can have all the latter, no matter how poor we are, if we make them so. Did we do it? Did we keep the home neat and tidy? Did we cultivate one flower to brighten the window or cheer the passer-by? And, by the way, the flowers are another blessing country people in particular should be thankful for. I do not believe we half appreciate them, or our chance to grow them. Only the other day I heard a gentleman say he had paid out considerable money to get a rose to grow at his far-away mountain home, but with no success, and that he would give a ten-dollar bill if he could accomplish it. Then silently I thanked God for this glimpse into the man's inner life, for if he loved the roses this much his soul was certainly akin to other things pure and beautiful. (And I had reason to rejoice, for this man was my brother whom I had not seen since childhood days).

But let us go back to our reverie, and as we look over the months which have flown so quickly, search our hearts that we may profit by our failures this year; that when another old year stands before us there will be less in our lives to regret.

It is nearly finished,
The old year's work is done.
We can only trust Our Father
With the coming one;
Trust Him for the joys and sorrows,
Which to us must fall,
Trust Him all in all.

PATIENCE PRIM.

THE CLOSING YEAR.

When chimneys no more music hold,
For that the swallows all are gone;
When winds be salty, blowing cold
From sailing ships and the wet dawn;
When briers, where the rose was bold,
The University should ratify the arrangement.
But her application was refused by the latter body, this time by a vote of 19 to 10. These odds, however, were not as great as those of three years ago when a similar proposal was acted upon. The objection was not personal to Dr. Kempin, but was made to the admission of women as academical teachers.

Newspaper women—twenty-two of them editing papers in Kansas, and we know of one New York daily that has twenty-two women on its staff. Think of the women who, these things indicate, are engaged in this business alone, a business which, once upon a time and not so many years since, they never thought of following.

Women practicing medicine, decorating the interior of cars, lecturing on Greek drama, establishing missions in slums, knocking at the door of moss-grown universities. Yes, women are doing. Almost it seems it is high time to cease to worry as to whether she may or no.

The ways to keep children out of mischief is a fruitful theme of discussion. It is a question in which all home-keepers are interested, all at least to whom the care of children is a part of the duties of home. Whoever lays out a big day's work to be done without the mental proviso, "If the children will be good I can get through with it?" Whoever went into such a day's work, but found the children were not good, that they had chosen that particular day to be particularly mischievous? Here is what one woman says upon the subject which is text and sermon in one:

When the child gets into mischief from having nothing else to do, spank its mother.

The British museum has received as a bequest the Tapling collection of stamps, containing about 200,000 specimens, exclusive of many cards and envelopes, and valued at between $250,000 and $300,000. Mr. Tapling was more than 20 years in making it. It is pronounced the finest collection of stamps existing.

TRUTH STRANGER THAN FICTION.

A True Story from North Carolina.

Some one has said that "the true and the false speak the same language." But there can be no doubt that this speaks with the true ring to it. Letter from Mrs. J. M. Holleman, proprietress of "Hotel Holleman," Apex, N. C.—"My son Harvey had scrofula from the time he was three years old until he was seven. We had the best doctors that the country afforded, yet he was given up to die, several times. Some one recommended Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. After taking five bottles he was well enough to get about, and has mended so fast that he is now enjoying good health."

Find a remedy for scrofula—something that purifies the blood, as well as claims to. That, if it's taken in time, will cure Consumption, which is only lung-scrofula.

Dr. Pierce has found it. It's his "Golden Medical Discovery." As a strength-restorer, blood-cleanser, and flesh-builder, nothing like it is known to medical science. For Scrofula, Bronchial, Throat, and Lung affections, Weak Lungs, Severe Coughs, and kindred ailments, it's the only remedy so sure that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

CHILI WILL SQUARE UP.

No Danger of a War to Fear at Present.

Sensational Stories Denied at Washington.

When the Big Charleston Gets to Callao She Will Again Get Orders to Peacefully Sail Away and Not Fight.

New York, Dec. 26.—The World's Washington special says: The highest authority is quoted for the statement that the department of state has received from official sources assurance that the Chilian government will make proper reparation for the assault upon the sailors of the Baltimore in Valparaiso.

This knowledge has been communicated to the navy department and as a result Secretary Tracy spent yesterday at the department, notwithstanding that it was Christmas, in preparing fresh orders to United States war vessels in Valparaiso harbor and American ports.

The statement telegraphed from Washington of late in regard to the alleged mobilization of a fleet of merchant vessels to act as transports have been authoritatively denied.

This declaration was made last night by the assistant secretary, who said: "The secretary has read these reports and has not regarded them as worth denying until the publication of a telegram from San Francisco stating that Admiral Brown had chartered a large ocean-going tug capable of carrying several guns and of being used in the transportation of supplies in case of war with Chili. There is absolutely no word of truth in this report.

"Equally baseless is the statement that the United States government is arranging to charter merchant vessels for transports and other purposes. I make this statement without reservation and trust that it will not be misunderstood. Let me add a broader and more important declaration. There is not a single vessel of the United States now under orders for Chilian waters.

"There are two ships at present in Valparaiso harbor—the Yorktown and the Boston. The latter arrived yesterday and has been promptly ordered to sail for San Francisco. In a word, you may say authoritatively, that not a single step of any description is being taken by the United States looking towards a conflict with the Chilian government."

Neither Secretary Blaine nor Secretary Tracy would say anything last night as to the recent advices from Chili, but ample evidence as to their pacific tones were to be found in the general relaxation in state and navy department circles and in the orders sent to the Boston to proceed at once to San Francisco.

The Charleston's Movements.

San Francisco, Dec. 26. The steamer Monowai arrived in yesterday from Honolulu and Australia. She brings the important news that the Charleston left Honolulu on December 17, the same day that the Monowai sailed.

The first officer of the Monowai, who was on the bridge at the time, says that his vessel had only got under good headway when, through his glasses, he saw the anchor weighed on the Charleston and a few minutes later the cruiser put to sea, heading in a south-southeast direction. From the course she took it was plain she was bound for Callao.

From other Honolulu arrivals it was learned that the Charleston received orders to make the direct course to Callao, there to receive ammunition from the San Francisco and then proceed to guard the nitrate beds at Iquequc.

This looks as though President Harrison felt war was inevitable and proposed to blockade the most important revenue-producing industry of the Chilians.

Advices from Honolulu say that Surgeon George W. Woods, of the United States steamer Charleston, met with a serious accident on Dec. 15. His runaway team collided with a telegraph pole, throwing him violently to the ground. He was badly cut on the back of the head and forehead. His condition is reported as critical.

THE STATE OF TRADE.

Gossip About Holiday Business.

Speculation Continues Moderate—Conditions Fair; Good—Trade Large—Some Uneasiness in the South.

New York Dec. 26.—R. G. Dunn & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, says: Holiday trade is not always a just measurement of the prosperity of the people, but it is satisfactory to know that at most points it is unusually large this year, though some localities report that it is less than last year. General trade this season is unusually light, merchants being engaged in taking stock, but at many points it is reported larger than usual and even larger than last year. Reports show less complaints as to collections and a large trade in progress.

At Pittsburg trade is unusually good in all lines, with iron and steel manufacturers more hopeful, and the glass trade fairly good. At Cleveland wholesale trade is good, though the shoe trade is dull, but holiday business is brisk, exceeding last year's work.

At Chicago sales and collections of merchandise exceed last year's in spite of soft country roads and the holiday trade is phenomenal; receipts of wheat, corn and rye are double last year's, of dressed beef three times last year's, increase in flour is a third, in cured meats a quarter, and in oats, barley and cattle large, notwithstanding the complaints of car famine throughout the west. Money is easy and demand good.

At Milwaukee open weather and bad roads retard trade, but the holiday business exceed's last year's, though traders in country towns are suffering. At St. Louis mild weather also checks trade, but holiday business is very large, and trade in clothing, shoes and other seasonable goods above the average, and money is easier. At Kansas City holiday trade is brisk, though the blockade affects receipts of cattle and grain, and other trade is fairly healthy. At St. Paul, in spite of unseasonable weather, the jobbing trade is good and retail trade very active, and at Minneapolis the cut of lumber for the year is 450,000,000 feet, the output of flour 201,000 barrels, against 130,000 last year, and the general feeling confident. At Omaha trade is good, though money is close.

Southern cities report less cheerfully, the low prices of cotton causing dullness at Memphis and Charleston and also at Savannah. But at New Orleans business is more active and larger in volume, though cotton receipts are heavy and sugar is fairly active, with money in strong demand.

The great industries close the year with more than usual activity, even the woolen mills having orders enough to keep them fairly employed, and a number have recently started, but none shut down. Cotton manufacturers find a good demand, and numerous enlargements of plants are reported. Shoe factories complain that usual orders are lacking and yet they are fairly active. Paper mills are active and making many additions of machinery and buildings. The iron manufacture has been turning out more pig iron than ever before, though some works stop for the holidays, and the tone of the market is stronger, with rather more demand for finished products.

Speculation continues moderate, wheat having risen 1 1-4 cents with sales of 13,000,000 bushels, corn having declined 1 cent and oats a fraction. Coffee is unchanged, oil half a cent higher and pork unchanged. Cotton has dropped a sixteenth below 8 cents, with receipts from plantations exceeding last year's to date by 556,000 bales. The very large output of coal leads operators to expect lower prices.

The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last six days number 292 as compared with 335 last week. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 333.

SAVED BY A DREAM.

WONDERFUL EXPERIENCE OF A TOLEDO YOUNG LADY RESIDING ON BANCROFT-ST.

While Asleep She Sees the Face of a Man Who Afterwards Restores Her to Health, Happiness and a Husband.

During an evening's conversation at the home of a newly married couple on Bancroft street the society editor became so interested in the recital of a remarkable dream that she determined to reproduce it for the entertainment of Bee readers.

The young lady in relating her dream said: It was on the night of the 20th of May last. I remember the date distinctly because the dream impressed me so much. At the time I was not yet married, but lived at home on Erie street. I was in a terrible state of health. Three years before I had been engaged to Frank ——, my present husband, but the marriage was postponed time and again on account of my health. Our family doctor and a half dozen others had failed to do anything for my stomach trouble, which was so bad that I was in constant misery unless I starved myself.

Well, as I was saying, I went to bed on the night of the 20th of last May. I had tasted but little food or drink all day, so my poor, weak stomach was comparatively easy, which, I suppose, accounts for the fact that I had a pleasant dream. At other times when I tried to eat much of anything I used to have the most horrible dreams, and often awaken suddenly with a sinking sensation, palpitation of the heart and shortness of breath, as if dying. But to return to my pleasant dream. In my nocturnal mental vision I saw the face of a benign, sympathetic learned-looking man, wearing spectacles and a black moustache. His face was radiant with such an honest, intelligent and trustworthy expression that he at once won my complete confidence. In a plain, simple, yet learned way he told me that he had devoted a great part of his life to the science of diet, the laws of life.

Then I thought in my dream that after asking me many questions as to my symptoms he prepared me a diet chart of what to eat and drink, and gave me also some specific stomach remedies which he said would completely restore me to health and strength provided I faithfully followed for a few months his directions for eating, and how to cook the different articles of diet.

Then in my dream I ate with good affect some of the things prepared according to the diet chart and took the remedies prescribed, after which I seemed to jump the chasm of a few months' time at a single bound. I saw myself in the mirror to be the self same girl of years before with bright eyes, full and rosy cheeks, plump form and elastic step, instead of the wan, dull eyed, worn out, sallow complexioned, nervous, pain racked, cranky and miserable creature of my dyspeptic days. Then my old love Frank —— of lower town dropped the other girl that he had been keeping company with of late and we were married by that able and earnest man, the Rev. Bethards. Then in my dreamland travels I saw our beautiful cosy home where Frank and I settled down and lived, Oh! so happy.

A rude awakening snatched this beautiful panoramic view from my mental vision. The clock on the mantel was striking eight, the spring sunshine was streaming in at my bedroom window and I was my old and miserable dyspeptic self. I cannot describe the disappointment I felt when I had been awake long enough to realize that my good health, marrige and happiness were all a dream. But the likeness of the man who had given me the diet chart and remedies that cured me in my dream was so clearly stamped on my memory that I could not banish him from my thoughts. In vain I tried all during the day to recall where I had seen that face. While glancing over the columns of the Bee that evening in a despondent mood I was suddenly startled by the sight of a man's portrait in its columns. There before my very eyes I beheld the exact likeness of the man who had cured me in dreamland. My mind was made up in an instant, and the following day I sought and found the original of the picture. I got the diet chart and remedies just as I dreamed, and after three months I was the picture of health, just as I saw myself in the mirror while dreaming. Now I am happily married to Frank, as you see, and settled in this cozy home. Who was the man that cured me, did you ask? O, well, I don't mind telling you now that it was Dr. Kalkhoff, the great European specialist whose elegant offices, surgery and laboratory occupy the entire upper floors of the block at 505 and 507 Summit street, between Oak and Orange. I kept the fact of my treating with him a secret from my people until after I was nearly cured for fear they would laugh at me for being so simple as to be influenced by a dream. How do I account for the dream? Well, I don't know, unless it was the result of seeing the doctor's picture and reading about him in the newspapers. These impressions, along with thoughts of recovery to health and my marriage, might have gotten mixed up together and formed the beautiful panoramic picture of my dream. This I have been told is the scientific psychological explanation of it. Anyhow, I am awfully glad that I took notice of that dream. Publish my dream, did you say? For heaven's sake, if you must print it, leave out my name, as I have a horror of such notoriety, and then I should have to sit up nights to answer the curious questions of every dyspeptic in this part of the country. The society editor promised and the rosy-cheeked Laura —— rested consent. So, kind readers, you have her story without the full name.

WONDERS.

As to our scenery, we are rather better informed; and yet every year many thousands of un-American Americans go to Europe to see scenery infinitely inferior to our own, upon which they have never looked. We say there are no ruins in this country, and cross the ocean to admire crumbling piles less majestic and less interesting than remain in America. We read of famous gorges and defiles abroad, and are eager to see them; unknowing that in a desolate corner of the United States is the greatest natural wonder of the world—a canon in which all the rest of the world's famous gorges could be lost forever. And not one American in ten thousand has ever looked upon its grandeur.

Of course, we know the Sahara, for that is not American; but you will seek far to find any one who is familiar with an American desert as absolute and as fearful. We are aware of our giant redwoods in California,—the largest trees in the world,—but did you ever hear of a petrified forest covering thousands of acres? There is one such in the United States, and many smaller petrified forests. Do you know that in one territory alone we have the ruins of over fifteen stone cities as old as Columbus, and many of them far older? Have you ever heard of towns here whose houses are three-story caves, hewn from the solid rock?

It seems to me that when these and thousand other wonders are a part of America, we, who are Americans, should be ashamed to know absolutely nothing of them. If such things existed in England or Germany or France, there would be countless books and guides overflowing with information about them, and we would hasten on excursions to them, or learn all that reading would tell us.—St. Nicholas.

MAN SAVED BY SEA BIRD.

A vessel was ploughing through the waters of the South Atlantic when a cry of "Man overboard!" was heard. The man at the wheel brought the ship up in the wind and boats were lowered; but by the time this was accomplished the sailor was a quarter of a mile astern.

He kept up, however, and as the boat approached, a big albatross was seen to dart at him, and the next moment to struggle; then away went the bird, flapping violently, towing the sailor along the surface.

The men had to pull hard to gain upon it, and then it was found that the sailor was uninjured and perhaps had been saved by the bird.

He was almost exhausted when the albatross flew over him in evident curiosity; as it passed he seized its feet. The bird in its fear and terror was strong enough to tow him along the surface at a rapid rate.

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Northern district of Ohio, Western division, entered in the above entitled cause on June 5, 1891, and of a decree of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern district of Ohio, Western division, entered in the above entitled cause on June 1, 1891, and of a decree of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern district of Michigan, entered in the above entitled cause on June 29, 1891, and of a decree of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Western district of Michigan, Southern division, entered in the above entitled cause on June 30, 1891, and of an order of said circuit court of the United States for the Northern District of Ohio dated December 23rd, 1891, and of orders of said other circuit courts adopting the same, we, Benjamin F. Wade and Hiram F. Carleton, the Special Masters designated by said decrees, will sell without appraisement, at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, in the United States court room, in the City of Toledo, County of Lucas, and State of Ohio, at three o'clock, p. m. on the 8th day of January, 1892, the property covered by and embraced in the consolidated mortgage of the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw Railroad Company, dated December 1, 1888. Excluding the Central Division, being the property described in the first mortgage of the Cincinnati, Van Wert & Michigan Railroad Company, dated April 14, 1881), together with the proportion of equipment, material and supplies appertaining to the same which, upon the reference ordered in said decrees, shall be decreed by the court to properly belong to the same, and to be covered by said Consolidated Mortgage. Said property (excluding the Central Division) will be sold as an entirety, without appraisement or redemption. No bid will be accepted therefor from any bidder for a sum less than $4,750,000, nor from any bidder who shall not, if requested by the Special Masters, place in their hands, or deposit with them, as a pledge that he will make good his bid, if accepted by the court, the sum of $25,000 in cash or Consolidated Mortgage Bonds to the amount of $250,000 of principal.

Of the price for which said property shall be sold, there shall be paid in cash, at the time of the sale, a sum equal to the amount of cash deposit hereinbefore required, and also, at the same time, and from time to time thereafter, such further portions of said purchase price as the court may direct; and the court reserves the right to reject any bid, and to take and to sell said premises and property upon failure of any purchaser for twenty days to comply with any order of the court requiring payment. The balance of the purchase price not required to be paid in cash may either be paid in cash, or the purchaser may satisfy and make good said balance of his bid, in whole or in part, by paying over the outstanding Consolidated Mortgage Bonds, and overdue coupons or either at such rate or value as shall be equivalent to the amount that the holders thereof would be entitled to receive thereon, in case the entire purchase price were paid in cash. If a bid shall be accepted by the court, and the person making the same shall fail to comply with all the conditions of sale and all orders of the court with respect thereto, the sum deposited by the bidder shall be forfeited and shall be applied as the court may direct.

MARK TWAIN'S BROTHER

Would Make a Good Character for One of the Humorist's Books.

Mark Twain has a brother living in Keokuk, Ia., who is absent minded enough for Mark to "put in a book."

It is related in that town that he drank violet ink for blackberry cordial, and then took an allopathic dose of ammonia instead of his cough medicine; but his latest absent minded adventure occurred last summer, when his wife had gone to a Sunday school picnic.

The maid and Mrs. Clemens both being gone for the day, Mrs. Clemens instructed her husband that he would find his lunch nicely prepared in the refrigerator. Upon her return home she inquired of Mr. Clemens as to his bachelorhood and how he had enjoyed his lunch.

"Well," said Mr. Clemens, "I didn't think the salad you spoke of was especially good, but I ate it."

Upon investigation Mrs. Clemens discovered that he had "eaten it" indeed, that is, the yeast put to raise for the next day's baking, while the salad proper remained untouched.

JACKSON WAS A GENTLEMAN.

Judge Sage relates a good story that James E. Murdoch, the veteran reader, once told him of Davy Crockett, the eccentric and big hearted Crockett, who, it is claimed, invented the maxim, "First be sure you're right, then go ahead." Murdoch was an acquaintance of Crockett, and he tells that on one occasion Crockett assured him that Gen. Jackson was the politest man he had ever met. It was while Jackson was president that Crockett paid his respects at the white house. "The president was glad to see me, and we talked a long time," said Crockett, 'and finally the general asked me if I wouldn't like to have a drink, saying that he had a fine bfrand that was the rale old stuff, and of course I could not refuse the president. So he went and brought it out, and he didn't tell me to pour out one. He didn't bring out any glasses at all; but in genuine, good old true Texan style he handed me the demijohn and then turned his back, and I swung it upon my arm and began to pull at it. Such liquor I had never tasted, and I couldn't let go for a long time, but the president never turned around until I said 'Bob,' and I tell you that is what I call real, true, genuine politeness, and that is why I say that old Gen. Jackson was the politest man I ever knew.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

THE GREAT EASTERN.

The famous Great Eastern has been broken up and sold for scrap, but even to the end the great ship maintained her reputation for ill luck. Even after she had been beached and the work of destruction had been begun, the ill-fated craft broke away and quietly floated off down the Mersey one dark night, threatening destruction to the shipping of the river. The amount of metal in the hull and machinery was something astonishing in these days of high shipbuilding art. The hull was built of best Lowmoor iron plate, three-quarters of an inch thick, about 7,300 tons of iron being thus used. The engines and other fittings of the ship brought the total weight up to 12,375 tons.

In breaking up the Great Eastern all the ironwork was carefully removed, with as little injury as possible, and sold to iron merchants, who have distributed the material in various parts of the world. A large part of the plates went to Canada, and the beams and angles were sold to Italian iron manufacturers. The entire proceeds of the sale of old material amounted to about $290,000. The original cost of the ship was about $3,750,000. —Philadelphia Record.

NOT SPORT, BUT CRUELTY.

It is hard to find words strong enough and yet not offensive to polite ears, to express one's indignation of a man who will repeatedly drive a horse at a high jump in a ring for mere exhibition when the animal gives every manifestation of his disinclination to perform. When the hippodroming results in the death of a noble animal, we lay aside our pen, unable to do the subject justice. Very recently that grand jumper Rosebury was killed at Chicago, in his rider's efforts to win applause from the gallery. The poor beast was sent at the height a number of times, and showed unmistakably that he was not "fit;" but he was kept at it, nevertheless, and finally, in a wild effort to do the bidding of the brute in the saddle, got a fall which resulted in his death. Owners of high jumpers appear to lose sight of the fact that a horse, like a man, is not always on edge and equal to his top performance. Mr. Pepper should have the condemnation of all sportsmen and humane people and the attention of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. It's high time this exhibition high jumping was stopped.—Harper's Weekly.

SAFETY IN MINES.

A French engineer recently introduced a new form of safety mine lamp, in which he has simplified the alarm bell now used on many forms of lamps. The light in this lamp is extinguished at the slightest attempt being made to open it against regulations, while at the same time a bell rings, which can be heard a long distance away. In addition to this the attempt to open the lamp causes a record to be automatically made. The bell is intended to insure mutual supervision among the miners in the same part of the mine, thereby giving them confidence, besides attracting the attention of the manager-in-charge of the miner's attempt to open the lamp.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup saves time and strength in its effects upon coughs or colds.

GLASNEVIN.

Glasnevin, where Mr. Parnell is buried, is a picturesque cemetery, surrounded by a high stone wall, with a watch tower at each angle, in which the Irish in olden times sighted the invading Danes. Many encounters took place in the now tranquil graveyard between the natives of the Emerald Isle and their intruding enemies. In later years its quiet walks were often trodden by the great Sheridan, Swift and Addison, who seemed to find in this shady place a favorite rendezvous for the formation of their brilliant thoughts.

OUIDA AND HER PETS.

Mme. de la Ramee ("Ouida") is on the point of leaving the beautiful old palace in Florence in which she has now passed several years. Her boxes are all packed, but at present she cannot make up her mind whether to leave the City of Flowers or not. Her last book, Santa Barbara and Other Stories, is just out. These stories chiefly Italian tales—sad and pathetic—treating mostly of her canine pets. Ouida has eight dogs of her own; her two favorites are a greyhound and a small white Pomeranian. The greyhound has the privilege of accompanying his mistress everywhere, and looks proudly conscious of the honor when sitting up gravely in her carriage.

SCROFULOUS SORES.

Lady Badly Afflicted Three Years Tries Many Doctors Here and in England Without Benefit—Cured by Cuticura.

My wife having suffered from scrofula sores on her back for three years, and at times she could not lie down at night, and she tried all the doctors I could get, and also went to England to try and be cured there, and all of them failed, and told her they could do nothing for her; and having tried all kinds of remedies I at last tried one box of your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and to-day she is as well as she ever was in her life, and her back is as clear as any person living, and I for one can recommend CUTICURA REMEDIES as the only one I could find to effect a cure.

Inherited Scrofula.

My nose was of a most pronounced crimson hue, the result of inherited scrofula. I suffered untellable mortification daily, and tried enough remedies to stock a drug store without deriving the slightest benefit. I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and the most flattering results followed their use. I am all right now, and I cannot find encomiums enough to bestow upon what I know to be the greatest and grandest gifts given by science to man. Please accept the most sincere and grateful thanks of one who has suffered.
